MARK ATTANASIO

CHAIRMAN AND PRINCIPAL OWNER

Mark Attanasio enters his 22nd season as chairman and principal owner of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Over the course of Attanasio's leadership, the Brewers have been one of the National League's most competitive teams, holding the fourth-highest winning percentage in the NL since the 2005 season (1725-1576, .523). In 2025, Milwaukee appeared in its third National League Championship Series of his tenure after posting the best record in Major League Baseball (97-65) and winning its fourth National League Central Division title in the past five years. The Brewers have the seventh-most wins in the majors since Attanasio became principal owner. Over the past nine seasons, Milwaukee has reached the postseason seven times, missing out in 2017 and 2022 by just a single game. The team holds the second-highest winning percentage in the National League since 2017 (763-594, .562), trailing only the Dodgers. The Brewers are one of only three teams to win at least 86 games in each of the past eight full seasons (not including 2020), joining the Astros and Dodgers.

For the past 22 years, Attanasio has been committed to the Brewers fan experience, and through significant investments, American Family Field has been and continues to be consistently rated as one of the best venues in all of sports. His dedication to the ballpark led to a monumental bi-partisan legislative agreement in 2023 to keep the Brewers in Milwaukee through at least 2050, which included a $150 million commitment from the organization.

Further, Attanasio has prioritized efforts to have a broad, positive impact on the Milwaukee-area community and throughout Wisconsin. Through the establishment of Brewers Community Foundation (BCF), the team's charitable arm, and through community relations efforts year-round, the Brewers are an integral part of the fabric of the community. As a result of Attanasio's steadfast dedication to invest in these efforts, BCF has generated more than $66 million over the past decade to support local non-profits in the areas of health, education, recreation and basic needs. Approximately 200 non-profit organizations receive funding annually through BCF's grant process.

Attanasio has been an accomplished investment management executive for more than 35 years. In addition to his role as chairman and principal owner of the Brewers, he is a managing partner of Crescent Capital Group, LP, a Los Angeles-based alternative asset management firm that he co-founded in 1991.

Attanasio received his A.B. from Brown University and his J.D. from the Columbia University School of Law. He and his wife, Debbie, have two sons, Dan and Mike, and three grandchildren.

RICK SCHLESINGER

PRESIDENT - BUSINESS OPERATIONS

Rick Schlesinger enters his 24th season with the Brewers and eighth in his current position after being promoted on January 23, 2019. He has previously held roles with the organization as executive vice president of business operations (2003-10) and chief operating officer (2011-18). He oversees the organization's business operations, including finance, human resources, information technology, legal, sponsorships, marketing, ticketing, business analytics, broadcasting, communications, stadium operations and non-baseball special events.

Schlesinger was named the 2025 Executive of the Year by the Milwaukee Business Journal. The Brewers organization has continued to innovate and grow under Schlesinger's guidance, delivering memorable fan experiences while strengthening partnerships across the region.

Under Schlesinger's leadership, the Brewers have established records in nearly every aspect of the business. More than 2.5 million fans have passed through the gates of American Family Field in 15 of the past 17 seasons (excluding the 2020 and 2021 restricted capacity seasons). In that time, the organization has focused on the fan experience, developed new and enhanced partnerships and completed several major development projects that benefit various stakeholders. Recent major investments in the fan experience at American Family Field include a new main scoreboard and a second digital board in right field (2024), the J. Leinenkugel's Barrel Yard (2023) and X-Golf (2022).

In 2023, Schlesinger joined elected officials in leading a successful effort to secure a generational lease extension for the Brewers at American Family Field. The new lease and associated funding ensures that American Family Field will be home to the Brewers through at least 2050.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1983, Schlesinger received his Juris Doctor from Harvard Law School (cum laude) in 1986.

MATT ARNOLD

PRESIDENT - BASEBALL OPERATIONS AND GENERAL MANAGER

Matt Arnold, 47, enters his 11th season with the Brewers and first as president of baseball operations and general manager after being promoted to his current position on October 23, 2025. Arnold joined the Brewers on October 14, 2015 as vice president and assistant general manager. He was promoted to senior vice president and assistant general manager on June 1, 2019 and was named the 10th general manager in franchise history on November 19, 2020. Arnold began leading baseball operations on October 27, 2022 after David Stearns stepped down as president of baseball operations.

In his 10 seasons in the organization (2016-25), Arnold has helped lead the Brewers to the fifth-best record in the Major Leagues and second-best record in the National League (836-683, .550). During his time in Milwaukee, the team has qualified for the postseason seven times (2018-21, 2023-25) and has won five National League Central Division championships (2018, 2021, 2023-25).

Arnold was named 2025 MLB Executive of the Year, becoming the first executive to receive the honor twice. He has also been honored as MLB Executive of the Year by The Sporting News (2024-25) and Baseball America (2024).

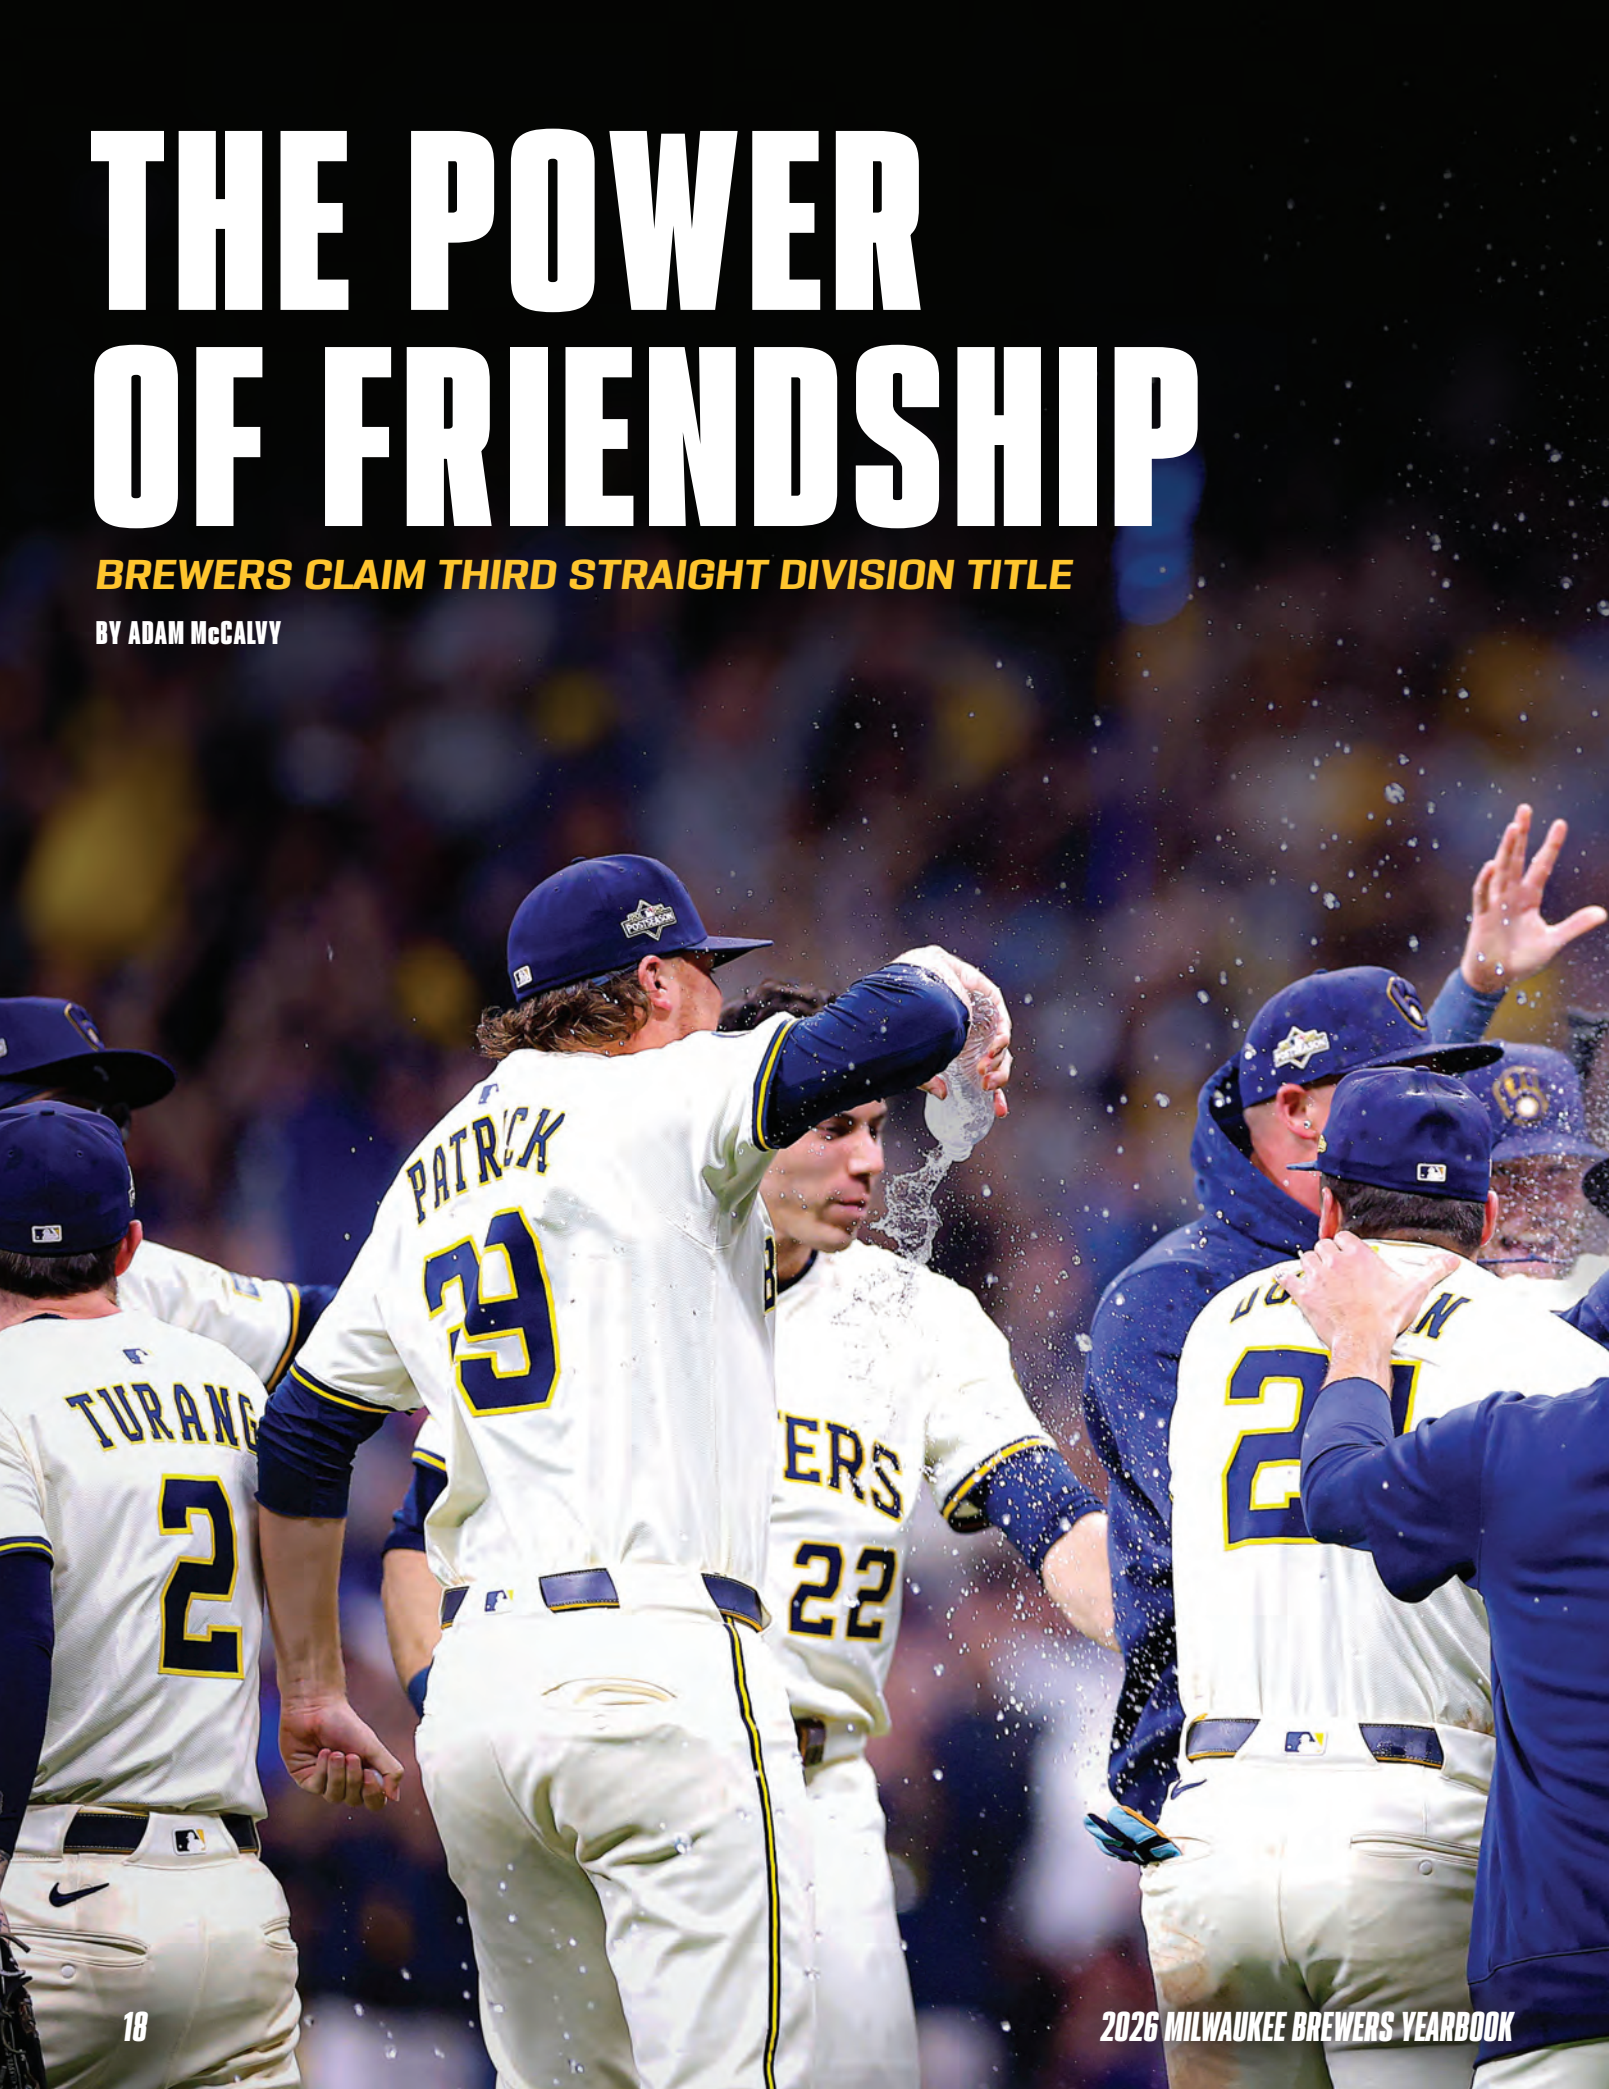
Arnold constructed a roster in 2025 that produced a franchise-record 97 wins and posted the best record in baseball (97-65) as the team qualified for the postseason for the seventh time in the last eight seasons and won the National League Central for the third consecutive season.

Originally from California, Arnold graduated from the University of California-Santa Barbara with a bachelor's degree in economics in 2001. He merited academic honors, including Sport Management Student of the Year.

THE POWER OF FRIENDSHIP

BREWERS CLAIM THIRD STRAIGHT DIVISION TITLE

BY ADAM McCALVY



The thing to remember about the Brewers' 2025 season is how terribly it began.

It was still March and they were 0-4 with a 12.27 ERA, owners of the worst run differential in the Majors and a place alongside the 1954 Cardinals for the most runs allowed in the first four games of any season in the modern era – even with first baseman Jake Bauers chipping in two scoreless appearances. Six starting pitchers were on the injured list. And another, Nestor Cortes, was a week away from becoming another.

Pat Murphy had some tricks up his sleeve as the reigning National League Manager of the Year, the first skipper in franchise history to claim that distinction.

But even he couldn't press pause on the schedule.

"You just roll with it and learn something," Murphy said. "Now we have an opportunity to learn. We haven't been smashed in the face like this in a long, long time."

Here's what we learned about the 2025 Brewers as they began to punch back.

APRIL

The Brewers couldn't do anything about March but they still had six months ahead, and they found their way into the win column in the fifth game of the season behind rookie Chad Patrick, who wasn't even supposed to be on the Opening Day roster. He overcame an illness to combine on a four-hit shutout of the Royals with four relievers, including Uribe in his first day of eligibility.

It was the start of something good for Patrick, who went into his second start of June with a sub-3.00 ERA and for a while was in the early-season NL Rookie of the Year conversation. Three of the hits that day came from second baseman Brice Turang, who began the year with a 12-game hitting streak and would go on to prove that the NL's reigning Platinum Glove Award winner could hit a little bit, too.

By the end of April, the Brewers had managed to stay above .500 at 16-15, with some milestones along the way. When Jackson Chourio delivered his second five-RBI performance in five days during a 17-2 win over the Rockies at Coors Field on April 9, it marked the first time in franchise history that the Brewers scored five or more runs in three different innings of the same game. When José Quintana delivered seven scoreless innings in a 7-0 win at Arizona on April 11, he became the 24th pitcher to earn a victory against all 30 teams. Fans gave rousing welcomes to 5-foot-7 infield prospect Caleb Durbin, who delivered two hits and slick defense in his Major League debut on April 18, and to right-handed pitching prospect Logan Henderson two days later, when he struck out nine over six innings of his own Major League debut on April 20 for a 14-1 Brewers victory and a sweep of the A's. Two days after that, Christian Yelich hit his fifth career grand slam and Quintana became the first pitcher since CC Sabathia in 2008 to begin his Brewers tenure 3-0 for the lone victory of a series against the Giants in San Francisco.

By month's end, the Brewers had already employed 10 different starting pitchers.

But they were keeping their heads above water.

"You finish [a month] .500 or above, you're in a good spot coming out of April," closer Trevor Megill said. "We're right in the middle of it, playing a lot of good baseball, just some games got away from us here and there. Nothing that we can't fix the next day. Our team grinds, and I like what we have."

MAY

By the middle of May, it seemed like the Brewers were leading the league in team meetings. They had one in San Francisco on April 24 after a sloppy series loss. Then they had another in Cleveland on May 13 after a second consecutive shutout loss to the Guardians left Milwaukee 4-8 to begin the month, a stretch that included four shutout losses.

"I think that confidence, you're going to see it get recuperated," said Chourio, who was gaining confidence himself, re-learning center field with Garrett Mitchell down with injury. "I think we're a very united group, and the overall feeling we have is we don't need more than we have in the room."

Little by little, they found the way out. Chourio snapped an 0-for-18 funk and robbed a would-be tying home run in a May 18 victory over the Twins that snapped Minnesota's 13-game winning streak – the longest winning spree in the Majors this season, for now.

And on May 25 in Pittsburgh, the Brewers did two things they'd been unable to do in any of their first 53 games of the season. They mounted a multi-run comeback. And they won a game they trailed after seven innings.

It was shaping into another frustrating day when Durbin fouled off five consecutive two-out, two-strike pitches before hitting the game-tying, two-run double. Turang, fighting a 1-for-24 slump, followed with a go-ahead double. The Brewers won the game.

And they didn't stop. Two days later, Yelich hit a grand slam for his first career walk-off home run to beat the Red Sox in 10 innings – the Brewers first victory when trailing after the eighth. The day after that, Durbin hit a walk-off sacrifice fly in the 10th to beat the Red Sox again and finish a series sweep, giving the Brewers their first consecutive walk-off wins since April 17-18, 2012, and their first consecutive walk-offs in extra innings since way back on May 16 and 19, 2000, when the heroes were Henry Blanco and Ronnie Belliard. Then they swept the Phillies in Philadelphia for the first time in a decade, capping a 15-13 month of May with a 17-7 rout in which Rhys Hoskins homered twice against his former team.

Starting with that Sunday finale in Pittsburgh, the Brewers won eight in a row and 53 of the next 69 to vault to the best record in baseball.

Finally, it was the team the manager was looking for.

"To see this today," Murphy said, "it gives a little bit of, 'Yeah, that's how we've got to play.'"

Said Turang; "We've got a good team. It's just

JUNE

It was the Month of Miz, and 6-foot-7 top Brewers pitching prospect Jacob Misiorowski arrived just as his team needed another jolt. Milwaukee was coming off consecutive series losses to the Padres and Braves when Misiorowski made his Major League debut on June 12 against the Cardinals at home. His parents were there wearing shirts that said, "Here for The Miz."

Of course, Misiorowski's first pitch in the Major Leagues was a fastball. It found the strike zone at 100.5 mph, making it the second-fastest fastball thrown by a Brewers starter in the pitch-tracking era, just a few clicks below Trevor Megill's 100.7 mph as an opener in 2023.

That mark didn't take long to fall. Misiorowski's second pitch was 101.8 mph. His fifth pitch was 102.2 mph. His 78th pitch was 101.1 mph to complete a fifth hitless inning en route to a 6-0 win.

"It's just incredible pitches coming at you," said catcher William Contreras, who helped calm Misiorowski when a crowd of 27,687 stirred as the duo walked in from the bullpen. "After that, he had to lock in and not try to do too much. Just pitch."

For a series of starts, that's what Misiorowski did. After getting rained out at Wrigley Field, Misiorowski started at Target Field against the Twins instead and took a perfect game into the seventh inning of a 17-6 win on June 20, part of a series sweep in which the Brewers bludgeoned Minnesota to the tune of 35 runs on 47 hits. His 11-inning hitless streak to open a career was the longest by a starting pitcher in the Modern Era (since 1900), according to the Elias Sports Bureau.

Back in Milwaukee five days later, Misiorowski out-dueled Pirates ace Paul Skenes, the reigning NL Rookie of the Year Award winner who was already the frontrunner for the 2025 NL Cy Young Award. It was an event. The final paid attendance was 42,774, making it the best-attended game to that point of the season in Milwaukee -- ahead of the home opener or any of the Brewers' early-season games against the Cubs. President of Business Operations Rick Schlesinger was curious to find a comparable crowd for a weekday, non-holiday, non-Cubs game, so he checked the records. He had to go all the way back to an August 2011 game against the Dodgers, when Prince Fielder, Ryan Braun and the Brewers were cruising toward the franchise's first division title in 29 years.

Misiorowski felt it, and tried to focus on pitching.

"It was one of those things where you wanted to try to calm yourself down as much as possible and stay off the Internet," he said. "I feel like everything that I swiped was like, me and Skenes, me and Skenes, me and Skenes.

"I had to turn it off, had to mute it. It was a good time to spend with the girlfriend."

The Brewers went 16-9 in June, but Miz mania was about to reach a new level.

JULY

Brandon Woodruff's first Major League pitch in 652 days was a strike. His first out was a strikeout. His first two innings were perfect. His third inning featured a fastball that lit the stadium scoreboard at 96 mph.

After right shoulder surgery and a grueling, multi-year rehab stretched even longer by a sore right ankle and a line drive off the elbow while he was tuning up in the Minor Leagues, "Big Woo" was finally back for the Brewers' 3-1 win in Miami on July 6.

"Honestly, I had no expectations. I had none at all," Woodruff said. "There were different waves of it. I'd be sitting here, and it's like, 'Man, I'm about to throw my first game in two years.' And just quietly think to myself, like, 'This is such a cool deal.'"

It was a cool day not only for Woodruff but for his longtime teammate Freddy Peralta, who was the lone Brewers player named to the initial National League All-Star team. And it marked the start of an 11-game winning streak that included some of the summer's most memorable moments.

With Hoskins sidelined by a torn ligament in his thumb, the Brewers found a new first baseman waiting for them when they returned home from Miami. Andrew Vaughn wasted no time making his presence felt on July 7, becoming the fifth player in franchise history to hit a home run in his first plate appearance of a 9-1 win over the Dodgers.

Before that series opener, Clayton Kershaw was asked about matching up against Misiorowski the following night, and told reporters he wasn't familiar with the Milwaukee phenom. Misiorowski saw the quote. And then he did something about it, serving up a leadoff home run to Shohei Ohtani before staging a strikeout clinic, whiffing 12 of the next 16 hitters on the way to completing six commanding innings of a 3-1 Brewers win.

Ohtani praised Misiorowski's "really good stuff." Kershaw called it "super impressive" while eating a side of crow.

"I know him now, huh?" Kershaw said.

The Brewers finished their first-ever three-game sweep of the Dodgers in Milwaukee the following day on Chourio's first career walk-off RBI, and when it seemed the day couldn't get any better, it did. Megill was named to the All-Star team as a replacement for Peralta, since Peralta was slated to pitch the first-half finale. Two days later, Misiorowski was named an All-Star, too, and if that seemed like an unusually quick ascent from MLB debut to MLB All-Star, it's because it was the quickest ever. Misiorowski had five career games on his MLB resume when he clocked nine pitches north of 100 mph during a scoreless eighth inning in the NL's 7-6 victory in Atlanta.

Misiorowski was no stranger to the All-Star Game. A Kansas City native, he recalled attending the 2012 Midsummer Classic at Kauffman Stadium when he was 10 years old.

"He's our Forrest Gump," Murphy said.

Meanwhile, the Brewers kept winning. They swept the Dodgers again in the first series coming out of the break for a perfect 6-0 regular season against Los Angeles. Then they made it 11 in a row with a 6-0 victory in Seattle on July 21 that gave Milwaukee the best record in the Major Leagues, with 100 games in the books.

One more victory would have meant 12 in a row but American League home run leader Cal Raleigh went deep against Misiorowski for the only run of a 1-0 Brewers loss on July 22.

No need to worry, because the Brewers would begin another long winning streak in short order. But first, they finished a 17-7 July by welcoming back old friends like Prince Fielder, Ryan Braun and Carlos Gómez for a memorable home run derby that marked 25 seasons at the stadium formerly known as Miller Park, then bringing American Family Field back to the present by taking two of three from the Cubs in the teams' final Milwaukee matchup of the regular season.

AUGUST

The Brewers went 21-9 in August, beginning with a club-record 14-game winning streak in which it seemed like they might never lose again. It was the month of Turang, who homered 10 times to become the Brewers' first NL Player of the Month Award winner since Yelich way back in 2018, and Peralta, who won NL Pitcher of the Month honors after going 4-0 with a 0.32 ERA. It was also the month of "Uecker Magic," capped by the club celebrating the life of the late broadcaster by wearing jerseys with "UECK" across the back for their Aug. 24 game against the Giants.

And it all started with bad news on Aug. 1 when the Brewers placed Chourio on the injured list with a strained hamstring. Yet they never missed a beat, beginning a sweep in Washington in which the Brewers outscored the Nationals by a 38-14 margin and set a club record for a three-game series with 56 hits.

Then it was on to Atlanta, where Vaughn homered and drove in two more runs to help cap a three-game sweep of the Braves. Next was a sweep of the Mets in Milwaukee, which was memorable on and off the field. Center fielder Blake Perkins made a game-ending, victory-saving throw home for victory No. 7 of 14, William Contreras hit a dramatic home run after a pitch timer violation gave him new life in victory No. 8, and the series ended with a comeback from an early 5-0 deficit for a walk-off, 7-6 win and victory No. 9 in front of a sellout crowd on Aug. 10, when it looked like the Mets and Brewers might not play at all. That's the day businesses and homeowners surrounding the ballpark were beginning to clean up from the historic flooding in the city overnight.

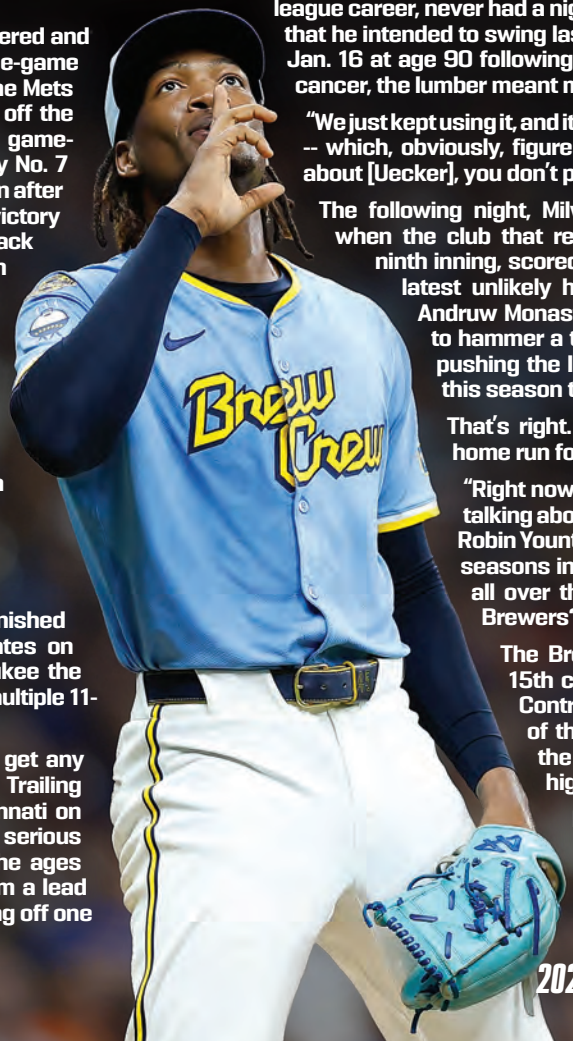
Murphy called the ballpark atmosphere that day the best he'd ever experienced. Quinn Priester called it "indescribable."

Rookie Isaac Collins, though, put it best.

"It's like magic in the air, almost," he said.

There was more magic as the Brewers finished a perfect homestand by sweeping the Pirates on scores of 7-1, 14-0 and 12-5, making Milwaukee the first team since the 2015 Blue Jays to have multiple 11-game winning streaks.

But if you thought the Brewers' run couldn't get any more magical, you hadn't seen anything yet. Trailing by seven runs in the second inning in Cincinnati on Aug. 15, with a 12-game winning streak in serious peril, Milwaukee mounted a comeback for the ages to tie the game by the fourth inning and claim a lead over the Reds by the sixth on the way to pulling off one of their most improbable, unforgettable wins ever, 10-8 -- all led by Yelich swinging a Bob Uecker tribute bat that he waited a full year to carry to home plate.



Yelich's four-hit, five-RBI night fueled the 13th comeback victory in franchise history after a deficit of seven or more runs. It was also a 13th consecutive win for these Brewers, who matched 1987's "Team Streak" for the longest winning spree in franchise history.

"[Yelich] told me on the bench, straight up, it was 8-1, he said, 'We're going to win this game,'" Murphy said. "How do you make that statement? He looked at me and said, 'We're going to win this game.'

"And then... it happened."

Uecker, who famously batted an even .200 during his own big-league career, never had a night like Yelich, who did it all with a bat that he intended to swing last season. After Uecker's passing on Jan. 16 at age 90 following a private battle with small cell lung cancer, the lumber meant more than ever.

"We just kept using it, and it ended up being part of a special night -- which, obviously, figures," Yelich said. "When you're talking about [Uecker], you don't put anything out of the question."

The following night, Milwaukee had a new "Team Streak" when the club that refused to lose tied the Reds in the ninth inning, scored again in the 10th and then saw the latest unlikely hero emerge when backup infielder Andruw Monasterio came off the bench in the 11th to hammer a three-run home run for a 6-5 victory, pushing the longest winning streak in the Majors this season to 14 games.

That's right. It was No. 14 hitting the go-ahead home run for victory No. 14.

"Right now, they're national news. Everybody is talking about the Brewers," said Brewers legend Robin Yount, who played all 20 of his Hall of Fame seasons in Milwaukee. "I get texts from friends all over the country saying, 'How about your Brewers?' I think it's captivating everybody."

The Brewers were two outs away from a 15th consecutive victory on Aug. 17 when Contreras hit a go-ahead homer in the top of the ninth, but the lead got away from the bullpen on a day Milwaukee's usual high-leverage relievers were off limits.

No worries. For all intents and purposes, the NL Central was already won.

Make it and play it and finish it, on one charge.

SEPTEMBER

When the Brewers clinched the seventh postseason appearance in the last eight years on Sept. 13, they authored a fitting finish. They came back from deficits of 6-1 in the sixth inning, 7-4 in the ninth and 8-7 in the 10th to beat the Cardinals, 9-8, on Monasterio's walk-off single.

By then, the Brewers were already the first team in the Majors with a postseason berth secured, but a euphoric comeback was a fitting way to finish the night. It didn't come easy. It rarely does for this team.

They toasted champagne, and Murphy spoke glowingly of where the Brewers stood at that point. He knew the group still faced an uphill climb if it wanted to make a run at the Brewers' first World Series appearance since 1982.

"They know they're not a powerhouse that's stacked like some of these other teams," Murphy said. "It's been a joy for me to be around a group of guys that has taken this uncommon mindset as serious as they have.

"Nothing on paper says we're supposed to be where we are."

They were on the cusp of a third consecutive National League Central title, and fourth in five years. They celebrated the latest on Sept. 21 in St. Louis by popping champagne and cold beers and soaking the carpeting in the visitors' clubhouse at Busch Stadium, scenes that have become routine while Milwaukee has piled up postseason appearances in recent years.

But they are not routine, as Rickie Weeks can tell you. Weeks was the Brewers' second baseman in 2011 when the team won its division for the first time in 29 years.

"It was the World Series for us to get that division because we hadn't done it for so long," said Weeks. "The first thing I think about when you pose that question is I think about what 'Yeli' told the group the other day when we were toasting. What happens is that every year is different, but every time you make the playoffs, and especially every time you win the division, that's not something that's just handed to you."

But before embarking on the next big goal, the Brewers took time to celebrate the moment.

"This," said Yelich amid the chaos of the celebration, "is the 'why.' This is why everything is harped on throughout the year. This is why we pay attention to detail. Why there's tough love throughout the season, why you keep grinding and trying to get better. These moments, and the fact that you can celebrate with your teammates and show them this is why we do all that work. Hopefully this is the first step of many more."

2025 POSTSEASON

THE BREAKTHROUGH AND THE WALL

BY CLAIRE CHEN

The 2025 regular season showed the Brewers' ability to compete at the top of the National League Central. October provided another opportunity for a young and determined club to compete in the postseason.

TAKING THE NEXT STEP

2025 NLDS: CONQUERING THE OCTOBER HURDLE

The 2025 NLDS against the Chicago Cubs was more than a routine postseason matchup. Since 2019, the Brewers had lost six consecutive postseason series, a streak that had come to define the franchise's October identity. Facing the Cubs added another layer: the former Brewers manager returning as the opponent. Milwaukee won the series 3–2 in five games, ending the drought and advancing past the division series for the first time since 2018.

The Brewers took a 2–0 lead at American Family Field. In Game 1, they jumped on the Cubs with a six-run 1st inning and won 9–3. Jackson Chourio went 3-for-3 with three RBIs, the first player in postseason history with three hits by the end of the second inning, though he left the game with right hamstring tightness. In Game 2, Chourio returned to the lineup and hit a 419-foot, three-run home run off a 101.4 mph fastball (the fastest pitch for a postseason home run in the pitch-tracking era), as Milwaukee won 7–3. At 21, Chourio became the youngest player in MLB history with three home runs in his first five career postseason games.

The series shifted to Wrigley Field, and the Cubs responded. In Game 3, Pete Crow-Armstrong hit a tiebreaking two-run single to give Chicago a 4–3 win and avoid elimination. In Game 4, Matthew Boyd pitched 4.2 scoreless innings and Ian Happ hit a three-run home run in the 1st inning as the Cubs shut out Milwaukee 6–0, sending the series back to American Family Field for a deciding Game 5.

Game 5, in front of 42,743, was built on pitching depth. Manager Pat Murphy used an aggressive committee approach to limit the Cubs to six baserunners all night. All-Star closer Trevor Megill opened with a clean 1st inning before handing the ball to 23-year-old rookie Jacob Misiorowski. Misiorowski threw 4.0 innings of one-run ball to earn the win, followed by relief from Chad Patrick and Aaron Ashby. Abner Uribe then recorded the first multi-inning save of his career, retiring the Cubs in order in the 9th.

The Game 5 offense came entirely from solo home runs. William Contreras connected in the 1st inning, making it the first five-game postseason series in MLB history with a first-inning home run in every game (the two clubs combined for 22 runs in the opening frame across the series). After Chicago tied it on a Seiya Suzuki home run off Misiorowski, Andrew Vaughn hit a go-ahead solo shot in the 4th. Brice Turang, who had struggled throughout the series, added an insurance home run in the 7th to make it 3–1.

For veterans like Christian Yelich, the NLDS victory was significant beyond the scoreboard. The Brewers had not advanced past the division series since 2018. Defeating the Cubs in five games proved the failures of previous Octobers no longer defined this roster. Milwaukee moved on to face the Dodgers in the NLCS.

AN OCTOBER CHALLENGE

The NLCS against the Dodgers was a different story. Los Angeles swept the series in four games, holding Milwaukee to exactly one run in each contest. The Brewers' .118 batting average was the lowest in MLB history for a postseason series of at least three games. Regular-season production, Yelich's 103 RBIs, Chourio's 21/21 season, did not translate against a Dodgers pitching staff that posted a 0.63 ERA in the series. Brandon Woodruff's continued absence left a gap in the rotation. The series ended in Game 4 when Shohei Ohtani hit three home runs and struck out 10 in a 5–1 Dodgers win. Chourio provided the lone highlight, hitting a first-pitch leadoff home run off Yoshinobu Yamamoto in Game 2, making him the only player in MLB history with multiple postseason leadoff home runs before age 22.

The 0-4 result does not erase what the 2025 Brewers accomplished. The team finally cleared the psychological hurdle of the first round, only to encounter a Dodgers club operating at a higher level of execution. This young core will carry that experience into 2026 in Phoenix, where the goal will be to take the next step.

In addition to compiling the best record in Major League Baseball, the 2025 Milwaukee Brewers put together winning streaks of eight, 11, and a club-record 14 games from August 1-16. Return with us now to those thrilling days of August 2025. The Milwaukee Brewers ride again!

BY DENNIS SELL

VICTORY #1 | FRIDAY, AUGUST 1, 2025
MILWAUKEE 16, WASHINGTON 9

The Brewers score five runs in both the third and seventh innings, and tally a season-high 25 hits in defeating Washington, 16-9. William Contreras and Andruw Monasterio collect five and four hits, respectively, while Andrew Vaughn, Caleb Durbin and Joey Oritz each add three hits. Blake Perkins (2), Vaughn, and Contreras all hit home runs. José Quintana picks up the win, allowing two runs and six hits in five innings of work.

VICTORY #2 | SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 2025
MILWAUKEE 8, WASHINGTON 2

Milwaukee bangs out 15 hits in an 8-2 victory over the Nationals. Christian Yelich and Brice Turang lead the hit parade with three hits apiece. Yelich belts his 21st home run of the season. Brandon Woodruff picks up his third win of the season, allowing two runs and just one hit over six innings.

VICTORY #3 | SUNDAY, AUGUST 3, 2025
MILWAUKEE 14, WASHINGTON 3

Leading 5-1 after six innings, the Brewers break the game wide open with a seven-run seventh inning, highlighted by Brice Turang's two-run home run. Seven Brewers collect two hits–Andrew Vaughn, Christian Yelich, Brice Turang, Joey Ortiz, Caleb Durbin, Isaac Collins and Brandon Lockridge. Aaron Ashby picks up the win in relief.

VICTORY #4 | MONDAY, AUGUST 4, 2025
MILWAUKEE 3, ATLANTA 1

Quinn Priester allows only a single run and two hits in seven innings of work in the Brewers' 3-1 win in Atlanta. The Brewers win the game on one swing of the bat - a three-run, fourth-inning home run by Isaac Collins following a hit-by-pitch and a single. The game is played in a snappy two hours, 11 minutes.

VICTORY #5 | TUESDAY, AUGUST 5, 2025
MILWAUKEE 7, ATLANTA 2

Milwaukee parlays seven singles and a triple into seven runs in its fifth straight victory. Christian Yelich and Andrew Vaughn collect the key hits in the Brewers' four-run third inning. Freddy Peralta picks up his 13th win of the season, allowing one run in five innings of work.

VICTORY #6 | WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 2025
MILWAUKEE 5, ATLANTA 4

The Brewers collect 14 hits in their 5-4 win and a sweep of the Atlanta Braves. Blake Perkins accounts for three of the hits, including a double and two-run homer in Milwaukee's three-run fifth inning. Isaac Collins adds three hits while Sal Frelick and Andrew Vaughn each collect a pair of hits. One of Vaughn's hits is a solo home run. José Quintana picks up the win, his ninth of the season.

VICTORY #7 | FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 2025
MILWAUKEE 3, NEW YORK-NL 2

The game ends in dramatic fashion as Blake Perkins throws out Starling Marte at the plate from his centerfield position to preserve a 3-2 Milwaukee win. The Brewers score all of their runs in the fifth inning, with two coming on Brice Turang's home run. Brandon Woodruff allows two runs and three hits over seven innings to record his fourth win of the season.

VICTORY #8 | SATURDAY, AUGUST 9, 2025
MILWAUKEE 7, NEW YORK-NL 4

The Brewers erase a 4-3 deficit by scoring four runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, with two of the tallies coming on a home run by William Contreras. Milwaukee's final four relief pitchers - Shelby Miller, Jared Koenig, Abner Uribe and Trevor Megill - combine to pitch shutout baseball, allowing only a single hit, in Milwaukee's 7-4 win.

VICTORY #9 | SUNDAY, AUGUST 10, 2025
MILWAUKEE 7, NEW YORK-NL 6

As Milwaukee-area residents were recovering from an unprecedented 14-inch rainstorm, the Brewers trail the Mets, 6-5, entering their half of the eighth inning. Joey Ortiz drives in the tying run with a two-out infield single. An inning later, Isaac Collins leads off the ninth with a walk-off home run to right field off Mets' relief ace Edwin Diaz.

VICTORY #10 | MONDAY, AUGUST 11, 2025
MILWAUKEE 7, PITTSBURGH 1

Brice Turang leads off the game with a home run. After the Pirates' Joey Bart ties the game with a third-inning homer, the Brewers score four runs in their half of the third, the first run coming on a home run by Christian Yelich. Sal Frelick and Brandon Lockridge add run-scoring singles. José Quintana raises his record to 10-4, allowing a run and three hits.

VICTORY #11 | TUESDAY, AUGUST 12, 2025
MILWAUKEE 14, PITTSBURGH 0

Matching Brice Turang's feat from the previous day, Sal Frelick leads off the Milwaukee first inning with a home run. Milwaukee bangs out 15 hits, led by Christian Yelich and Joey Ortiz with three apiece. The Brewers break the game wide open in the sixth frame by scoring six runs, including a three-run home run by Andrew Vaughn. Freddy Peralta pitches shutout ball, allowing only three hits and striking out seven in six innings.

VICTORY #12 | WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 13, 2025
MILWAUKEE 12, PITTSBURGH 5

Two four-run innings and a couple of two-run stanzas total 12 runs, more than enough to complete a sweep of the Pirates. The Brewers collect 12 hits, two each by Sal Frelick, William Contreras, Christian Yelich and Joey Ortiz. Frelick and Ortiz score four and three runs, respectively. Brandon Woodruff continues his standout pitching, hurling scoreless ball over four innings of work.

VICTORY #13 | FRIDAY, AUGUST 15, 2025
MILWAUKEE 10, CINCINNATI 8

It looks as if the winning streak will end at 12 as the Reds jump out to an 8-1 lead after two innings. The Brewers, however, score five runs in the third inning, three coming on Andrew Vaughn's home run, and two more in the fourth to tie the game. Christian Yelich homers in the sixth to give Milwaukee a 9-8 edge and the Brewers add an insurance run in the seventh. Yelich, using a Bob Uecker tribute bat, collects four hits and drives in five runs.

VICTORY #14 | SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 2025
MILWAUKEE 6, CINCINNATI 5

Trailing by a 2-1 score entering the ninth inning, Sal Frelick's ground ball scores Anthony Seigler to tie the game. After each team scores a run in the 10th inning, Andruw Monasterio, batting for Tyler Black, blasts a three-run home run in the 11th inning to give the Brewers a 6-3 lead. Although the Reds score a pair of runs in their half of the inning, Milwaukee records its club-record 14th consecutive win.

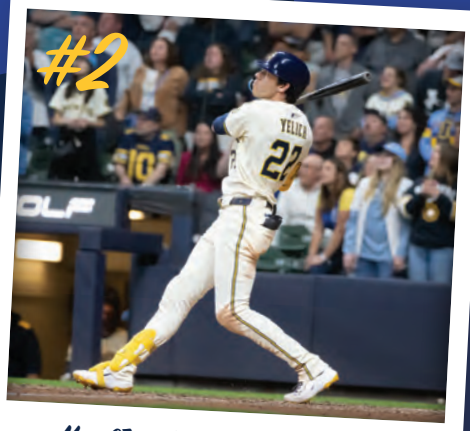
April 2 vs. Kansas City (Brice Turang)

The game is tied at one after nine innings. After Kansas City scores a run in the top half of the 10th inning, Jackson Chourio evens the game in the Brewers' half with a run-scoring double. After Jared Koenig holds the Royals scoreless in the 11th inning, Brice Turang's bunt single drives in Oliver Dunn with the winning run. Starting pitcher Freddy Peralta pitches a brilliant game, allowing only two hits and one run in eight innings of work.



May 27 vs. Boston (Christian Yelich)

Trailing 1-0 in the bottom of the ninth inning, Sal Frelick drives in Christian Yelich with a single to center to tie the game. In the 10th inning, Yelich sends the crowd of 26,489 into ecstasy with a grand slam. The 5-1 win over the Red Sox evens the Brewers' record at 28-28. Rob Zastryzny, the fifth pitcher used by Milwaukee, picks up the victory.

May 28 vs. Boston (Caleb Durbin)

With the game tied at four after nine innings, Boston scores a run in the 10th inning. After Isaac Collins ties the game with a fielder's choice ground ball, Caleb Durbin's sacrifice fly plates Sal Frelick with the winning run for the Brewers' second walk-off win in as many days. Frelick had four of the team's eight hits.

June 7 vs. San Diego (Caleb Durbin)

Trailing 1-0 entering the seventh inning, Jake Bauers ties the game with a sacrifice fly. The Brewers score twice in the eighth inning – the first run scoring on Rhys Hoskins' sacrifice fly and the second on Isaac Collins' two-out single. Then, with the Brewers one out away from a 3-1 win, Luis Arraez delivers a two-run double to tie the game. Caleb Durbin leads off the bottom of the ninth with a home run for a 4-3 win and sends the Saturday night crowd of 37,032 home happy.

July 9 vs. Los Angeles (Jackson Chourio)

Once again, the Brewers are trailing entering the bottom of the ninth inning. Andrew Vaughn, playing in only his third game in Milwaukee, delivers a game-tying single. In the 10th inning, Jackson Chourio's single to left scores Sal Frelick with the winning run. Trevor Megill hurls a perfect 10th, striking out all three batters he faces in Milwaukee's 3-2 victory.

BREWERS DELIVER 11 WALK-OFF VICTORIES

BY DENNIS SELL

One of the more exciting moments in a baseball game is the walk-off win, when the home team scores the winning run or runs in the final inning. The Milwaukee Brewers had 11 such wins during the 2025 season – representing 13.5% of the 81 home games. Let's relive each of the 11 dramatic victories:

#6

July 12 vs. Washington (Caleb Durbin)

The Nationals score two runs in the eighth and another in the ninth to turn a 3-2 deficit into a 5-3 lead. In the Brewers' half of the ninth, Andrew Vaughn ties the game with a two-run double. Four batters later, Caleb Durbin delivers a game-winning single to right field, scoring Andruw Monasterio, who was pinch-running for Vaughn. It was Durbin's third walk-off winner in the past 16 days.

#7

July 27 vs. Miami (Blake Perkins)

Trailing the Marlins, 2-1, Milwaukee ties the game in the eighth inning as Andrew Vaughn drives in Blake Perkins with a two-out double. In the ninth inning, Eric Haase singles to center with two out, moves to third base on Brice Turang's double, and comes around to score on Perkins' walk-off single, thrilling the Sunday afternoon crowd of 40,158.

#8

August 10 vs. New York Mets (Isaac Collins)

As Milwaukeeans were struggling to recover from a 14-inch rainstorm, the Mets led the Brewers, 6-5, entering the bottom of the eighth inning. Joey Ortiz's infield single plates Brice Turang with the tying run. Isaac Collins then leads off the Brewers' ninth with a home run to right field to give Milwaukee a 7-6 win. Earlier in the game, William Contreras belts a pair of home runs in consecutive at-bats.

#9

August 22 vs. San Francisco (William Contreras)

The Giants score a run in each of the first two innings, the first on a home run by former Brewer and fan favorite Willy Adames. Milwaukee scores two runs in each of the fourth and seventh innings to take a 4-2 lead. Adames pulls the Giants to within a run with another home run, this one in the eighth frame. Leading 4-3 with two out in the top of the ninth inning, a wild pitch allows the Giants to tie the score. In the bottom of the ninth, William Contreras steps to the plate and sends the Friday night crowd of 41,716 home happy with a two-out home run.

#10

August 26 vs. Arizona (Isaac Collins)

With the Brewers holding a seemingly insurmountable 8-3 lead after six innings, thanks to a five-run third, Arizona scores three runs in the seventh and two more in the eighth to tie the game. A single and a pair of walks load the bases in the ninth. Isaac Collins' sacrifice fly to right field scores pinch-runner Brandon Lockridge with the winning run in Milwaukee's 9-8 victory.

#11

September 13 vs. St. Louis (Andruw Monasterio)

Trailing 6-2 entering the bottom of the eighth inning, Milwaukee scores a pair of runs to pull to within 6-4, only to see the Cardinals add an insurance run in the ninth. But then Sal Frelick, Jackson Chourio, and William Contreras each drive in a run in the ninth inning to tie the game. After St. Louis scores a run in the 10th inning, the Brewers tie the game on Caleb Durbin's run-scoring double. Durbin then scores the winning run on Andruw Monasterio's single to center, thrilling the Saturday evening crowd of 41,807.

The Brewers' team record for most walk-off wins is 14, set in 1983 and tied in 2000. An amazing seven of the 14 in 1983 came on walk-off home runs – Robin Yount, Ted Simmons and Ben Oglivie had two each, and Rick Manning one. Simmons, who was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 2020, collected five of the 14 walk-off hits. The inaugural Milwaukee Brewers team of 1970, along with the 1997 and 2006 squads rank second with 12 walk-off wins.

THE MIGHTY QUINN

"COME ALL WITHOUT, COME ALL WITHIN YOU'LL NOT SEE NOTHING LIKE THE MIGHTY QUINN"

(A lyric from "The Mighty Quinn," a song written by Bob Dylan and sung by Manfred Mann, 1968)

BY DENNIS SELL

Quinn Priester was a first-round selection by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the 2019 Major League Draft and made his big-league debut in July 2023. Appearing in 20 games during the 2023 and 2024 seasons, 14 as a starter, Priester struggled to a 5-9 record and a 6.46 ERA. On July 29, 2024, he was traded to the Boston Red Sox, who promptly assigned him to their Triple-A affiliate at Worcester. Recalled in September, Priester started and won Boston's final game of the 2024 season.

When the Brewers acquired Priester from the Red Sox on April 7, 2025, the trade created hardly a stir among Brewer Nation. In fact, some thought that Milwaukee had given up too much in the form of minor leaguers Yophery Rodriguez and John Holobetz, along with a Competitive Balance Round A selection in the 2025 draft. The results of the 2025 season would clearly prove otherwise.

Priester made his first start with Milwaukee at Colorado three days after his acquisition. He won his first game on April 15, allowing just one hit and no runs in five innings of work in a 5-0 win over Detroit. Beginning in mid-May, Priester put together an eight-game stretch during which he compiled a 2.23 ERA, a walk-rate of 5.6% and a ground ball rate of 60%.

The hard-throwing righthander developed a heavy sinker that helped generate a 55.7% ground ball rate for the entire season. Nowhere was this more evident than in a May 30 game at Philadelphia, in which Priester pitched the final six innings of the contest to pick up the win. Of the 18 outs he recorded, an incredible 16 were ground balls. None were strikeouts, a remarkable accomplishment in contemporary baseball.

After that May 30 contest, Priester did nothing but win, as did the team itself. With a 5-2 win at Pittsburgh on September 5, Priester recorded his 11th consecutive winning decision, surpassing an all-time Brewers' record that had been held by Chris Bosio and Cal Eldred, who each had 10-game winning streaks.

On September 18 vs. the Angels the Brewers won for the 19th straight time in a Priester start. It tied for the second longest streak for appearances in team victories in the last 125 years, matching Carl Hubbell's 19-game run with the New York Giants in 1936, and one short of Roger Clemens' 20-game streak with the 2001 New York Yankees.

Priester's final 2025 statistics were second only to Freddy Peralta... a 13-3 record, 3.32 ERA, 147.1 innings pitched and 132 strikeouts. While Quinn had a series of outstanding games, his best may have been the June 28 contest against Colorado in which he allowed only one hit, a fifth inning single by Michael Toglia, and struck out a season-high 11 batters in seven innings of work.

The Brewers look forward to similar production in 2026 by their Mighty Quinn.

11TH SEASON WITH BREWERS | 3RD SEASON AS MANAGER | 2024 & 2025 NL MANAGER OF THE YEAR

Pat Murphy became the 20th manager in Milwaukee Brewers franchise history prior to the 2024 season after serving as the club's bench coach from 2016 to 2023. In his first two seasons leading the Crew, he guided Milwaukee to back-to-back National League Central titles, including a franchise-record 97-win campaign in 2025, the best mark in all of baseball. In his second season at the helm, Murphy did it again, and then some. The back-to-back NL Manager of the Year led the Brewers to that record-setting season after most experts once again predicted Milwaukee would fall short. Murphy never flinched, guiding the club through a remarkable 29–4 stretch from July into August, capped by a franchise-record 14-game winning streak.

Murphy has helped shape a clubhouse built on competition, accountability and a blue-collar mentality. A longtime college coach at Notre Dame and Arizona State before joining the San Diego Padres and Brewers, Murphy is widely respected for his intensity, honesty and unconventional leadership style. As Murphy has often said, the Brewers do not rely on a "secret sauce." The focus is simple: compete, improve and find ways to get better every day.

Grant Anderson appeared in 66 games for the 2025 Brewers, the third most on the team. Anderson was equally effective in pitching to both righties and left-handed batters – .224 average and a .637 OPS against right-handed batters versus a .225 batting average and a .688 OPS against lefties. He played his college ball at McNeese State University. A sidearm pitcher, Anderson was a 21st-round selection by the Seattle Mariners in the 2018 draft and was traded to Texas the following season. Grant made his Major League debut on May 30, 2023, a game in which he struck out the first four batters he faced. Milwaukee acquired him from the Rangers on January 2, 2025.

A fourth-round selection by Milwaukee in the 2018 draft, Aaron Ashby begins his fifth Major League season in 2026. While he currently works out of the bullpen, Aaron started 23 games during his first two Major League campaigns. He missed what would have been his third season in 2023 due to arthroscopic surgery on his right shoulder. Ashby was the bullpen pitcher whom manager Pat Murphy relied on repeatedly during the 2025 regular season and postseason. No reliever in baseball threw more pitches after June 1 than Aaron, who missed the first two months of the season with an injury. The southpaw hurled 63.1 innings across the Brewers' final 98 games and posted a 2.26 ERA. Ashby is the nephew of former big-league pitcher Andy Ashby, who had a 14-year Major League career.

Following a midseason stint on the injured list, Jake Bauers returned to the active roster and proved to be one of the Brewers' best players for the remainder of the 2025 season. Bauers batted .305 with a .889 OPS for the balance of the regular season and went on to compile a .305 batting average and an OPS of .972 in the postseason. Originally a seventh-round selection by San Diego in 2013, Bauers was traded to Tampa Bay in December 2014. He went on to play for Cleveland, Seattle and the New York Yankees before the Brewers acquired the left-handed batter in November 2023. Bauers' most memorable moment as a Brewer was his seventh-inning home run in Game 3 of the 2024 NL Wild Card Series to break up a scoreless game against the Mets.

Jackson Chourio compiled a 20-game hitting streak in 2025, batting .392 during this time. His overall statistics last season were eerily similar to those produced during his rookie season in 2024 – .275 and .270 batting averages, 21 home runs each season, and 79 and 78 RBI. Signed as an International free agent on January 15, 2021, Jackson made his Major League debut on Opening Day in 2024 as the youngest player at 20 years of age. On September 21, 2024, Chourio became the youngest player in MLB history (20 years, 185 days) to hit 20 home runs and steal 20 bases in the same season. He finished third in the NL Rookie of the Year balloting behind Pittsburgh's Paul Skenes and San Diego's Jackson Merrill. In the 2024 NL Wild Card Series, Chourio hit two home runs against the Mets, becoming the second under-21-year-old to accomplish the feat. It was the first time since Babe Ruth in the 1928 World Series in which a player hit two game-tying homers in a postseason series.

William Contreras has been a mainstay for the Brewers at the catching position since his acquisition from Atlanta on December 12, 2022. Contreras earned the Silver Slugger Award in both the 2023 and 2024 seasons during which he compiled an OPS of .825 and .831, respectively. He hit a career-high 23 home runs in 2024 and legged out a career-best 38 doubles in 2023. The two-time All-Star played with a fractured left middle finger for the majority of the 2025 campaign and underwent corrective surgery after the season. Signed by Atlanta as an unrestricted free agent in 2015, Contreras made his Major League debut in 2020 and was a member of Atlanta's 2021 World Series champions. His older brother Willson played for the Cubs and Cardinals and is currently a member of the Boston Red Sox.

In what some observers call the "Summer of Sal," Sal Frelick enjoyed his best season to date, flirting with a .300 batting average all season. Sal finished with a .288 mark, tying Brice Turang for the team lead. The left-handed hitting Frelick batted .301 against left-handed pitchers and .282 against righties. He belted 12 home runs which helped raise his OPS by more than 100 points over the previous season. Frelick, who won a Glove Glove award in 2024, remained an elite defender in 2025. He topped the National League with nine defensive runs saved.

Originally selected by the San Diego Padres in the third round of the 2021 draft, Gasser was one of four players obtained by the Brewers in the Josh Hader trade on August 1, 2022. Playing for the Brewers' Triple-A affiliate in Nashville, Robert was named International League Pitcher of the Year after leading the league with 166 strikeouts and finishing second with a 2.85 ERA. The left-handed pitcher made his first Major League start on May 10, 2024 against the St. Louis Cardinals, pitching shutout ball over six innings, allowing just two hits, no walks and striking out four batters. In his first four starts, Robert posted a 2-0 record with a sparkling 1.96 ERA and .954 WHIP. In late June, Gasser was lost for the remainder of 2024 and most of 2025 due to elbow surgery.

After missing significant chunks of the past two seasons on the injured list, DL Hall's main goal for the 2026 season is to stay healthy. Hall appeared in 20 games for the 2025 Brewers, with 17 of those in relief. He posted a 3.49 ERA with a miniscule 1.06 WHIP. He was particularly tough on left-handed batters who posted a batting average of only .121. Hall was the 21st overall selection by Baltimore in the 2017 draft. He made his Major League debut on August 13, 2022 and earned his first big-league save on September 30, tossing a perfect ninth inning in a 2-1 win over the Yankees. Five days later, Hall earned his first victory in the opening game of a doubleheader against Toronto. DL was acquired by the Brewers from the Orioles along with Joey Ortiz in the Corbin Burnes trade on February 1, 2024.

David Hamilton returns to the team that originally drafted him. He was an eighth-round draft selection by the Brewers in the 2019 draft. Following the 2021 season, Milwaukee traded David, along with Jackie Bradley Jr., and Alex Binelas to the Boston Red Sox in exchange for right fielder Hunter Renfroe. Hamilton made his Major League debut with Boston in 2023, appearing in 15 games. During the following two seasons, he appeared in 98 and 91 games, respectively. In 2024, he hit 17 doubles, a triple and eight home runs. Speed is one of David's greatest assets as he has stolen 57 bases in 68 attempts during his career, an 84% success rate. Hamilton, who has a .970 career fielding percentage, came to Milwaukee in the Caleb Durbin trade.

Kyle Harrison was acquired by the Brewers in the Caleb Durbin trade with the Boston Red Sox in February 2026. A third-round selection by the San Francisco Giants in the 2020 draft, Harrison made his Major League debut on August 22, 2023. At 22 years and 10 days, he was the youngest Giants' pitcher since Madison Bumgarner in 2009. In his second big-league start on August 28, Kyle pitched 6-1/3 innings of shutout ball while striking out 11 batters. Harrison posted a 7-7 record with a 4.56 ERA and struck out 118 batters in 124.1 innings pitched during the 2024 season. He was acquired by the Red Sox on June 15, 2025 in the trade that sent Rafael Devers to San Francisco. Kyle's maternal grandfather is former left-handed pitcher Skip Guinn, who pitched in 68 games in parts of three seasons with Atlanta and Houston from 1968-71.

Selected by the Brewers in the fourth round of the 2021 Major League Draft, Logan Henderson began the 2025 season with the organization's Triple-A Nashville Sounds. He was promoted to the Major Leagues in April and made his first start on April 20 against the Athletics, striking out nine batters over six innings of one-run ball in the Brewers' 14-1 victory. Henderson pitched part of the season in Nashville where he compiled a 10-4 record with a 3.59 ERA and 1.107 WHIP. In five total starts for Milwaukee in 2025, Logan never allowed more than two runs in any of his starting assignments, posting a perfect 3-0 record with 1.78 ERA and a .987 WHIP. Unfortunately, injuries ended his season in August. A healthy Logan Henderson will compete for a spot in the team's 2026 starting rotation.

When manager Pat Murphy needed a pitcher to face tough left-handed batters, he invariably called on Jared Koenig. And Koenig didn't disappoint as evidenced by a .214 batting average and .286 slugging percentage by lefthanders against him. Appearing in a career-high 72 games, second to Abner Uribe's 75, Jared registered 27 holds in addition to his two saves. Using his sinker-cutter mix, he generated ground balls at a 47% rate. Jared was particularly effective in his final 34 appearances, posting a 1.38 ERA. Signed by the Brewers following the 2023 campaign, Koenig made his Major League debut on April 15, 2024 and has the distinction of becoming the 1,000th player to appear in at least one game in a Brewers uniform. Koenig posted a 9-4 record and a 2.47 ERA for the 2024 Brewers. Jared made his big-league debut in 2022 with the Oakland Athletics. His first strikeout victim was none other than current Brewers catcher William Contreras.

Following the trade of Devin Williams to the Yankees after the close of the 2024 season, Trevor Megill became the Brewers' closer in 2025 and proceeded to save 30 games in 36 save opportunities. Megill was rewarded by being named a member of the NL All-Star team in the Midsummer Classic. The hard-throwing righthander got a taste of the closer's role in 2024, saving 21 games, as Williams spent part of the season on the injured list. During the past two seasons combined, Megill has compiled a 2.60 ERA and a 1.07 WHIP. A seventh-round selection by San Diego in 2015, Trevor saw action with the Cubs in 2021 and Twins in 2022 before being acquired by the Brewers early in the 2023 season. His younger brother, Tylor, is a pitcher for the New York Mets.

Perhaps never before in the colorful history of the Milwaukee Brewers has a player entered the Major Leagues with as much fanfare as Jacob Misiorowski. "The Miz" lived up to the hype by not allowing a hit or run in his first 11 innings over two starts. Jacob then outdueled NL Cy Young Award winner Paul Skenes and future Hall of Famer Clayton Kershaw on June 25 and July 8, respectively. This earned him a selection to the NL All-Star squad. During the postseason, Misiorowski won two games and compiled a 1.50 ERA, striking out 16 batters in 11 innings of work, including nine strikeouts over five innings against the Dodgers.

Plagued by injuries in each of the past three seasons, Garrett Mitchell's main goal for the 2026 season is to stay healthy. Garrett was promoted to the Major Leagues in late August 2022 and collected his first Major League hit on August 28, a two-run single against the Cubs. The next day, he hit his first big-league home run, a two-run game-tying shot in the eighth inning vs. Pittsburgh. On September 16, he delivered a walk-off single against the Yankees. For the season, the 20th overall selection in the 2020 draft stole eight bases in as many attempts, a remarkable total considering he had plate appearances in only 21 games. In the opening homestand of the 2023 season, Mitchell blasted three home runs, the last of which was a walk-off shot against the Mets. In Game 2 of the 2024 NL Wild Card series, Garrett broke a three-all tie with a two-run homer in the bottom of the eighth to give Milwaukee a 5-3 win over New York.

After playing third base for the 2024 Brewers season, Joey Ortiz moved to shortstop in 2025 following the departure of Willy Adames. The slick-fielding shortstop accounted for 13 outs above average, fifth most at the position in the majors, and a .982 fielding percentage. Ortiz contributed with some big hits, including a grand slam at Citi Field in Milwaukee's 7-2 win over the New York Mets in the first game of a doubleheader on July 2. A fourth-round selection by Baltimore in 2019, Ortiz was acquired by Milwaukee along with pitcher DL Hall in exchange for Corbin Burnes on February 1, 2024.

A fourth-round selection by the Arizona Diamondbacks in the 2021 Major League Draft, Chad Patrick was traded to the Athletics in 2023. The Brewers acquired Patrick following the 2023 campaign in exchange for INF/OF Abraham Toro. During the 2024 campaign, the right-handed pitcher made 24 starts and two relief appearances for the Brewers' Triple-A affiliate in Nashville, compiling a 14-1 record and 2.90 ERA with 145 strikeouts in 136.1 innings pitched. His performance earned him the honor of International League Pitcher of the Year. He made 23 starts for the 2025 Brewers, finishing fourth on the team with 119.2 innings pitched and 127 strikeouts. In the postseason, Patrick posted a 2.00 ERA in six relief appearances. In Milwaukee's 3-1 victory in Game 5 of the NLDS against the Cubs, he hurled hitless ball in his 1.2 innings pitched, striking out three of the five batters he faced.

The emergence of Quinn Priester as a valued member of the starting rotation was one of the brightest stories for the 2025 Brewers. Milwaukee acquired the right-hander from Boston in exchange for two Minor League players and a draft pick on April 7, 2025. In a May 30 contest at Philadelphia, Quinn hurled the final six innings in which an amazing 16 of the 18 total outs were ground balls. From May 30 through September 18, Milwaukee won 19 straight games in which Priester was the starting pitcher. He recorded 12 straight winning decisions, surpassing a team record that had been held by Chris Bosio and Cal Eldred. Quinn was a first-round selection by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the 2019 draft and was traded to the Red Sox in July 2024, before finding a home in Milwaukee.

Signed by the Brewers as a free agent in February 2026, Luis Rengifo will compete for the third base position. The Brewers hope that the Venezuelan-born Rengifo can regain the form he displayed in 2023, a season during which he batted .264 with a .783 OPS. A wrist injury cut short his 2024 season, one in which he batted an even .300 with a .763 OPS. Rengifo has shown power on occasion as evidenced by his 17 and 16 home runs in 2022 and 2023, respectively. Signed by the Seattle Mariners as an International free agent in 2014, Luis was traded to Tampa Bay in August 2017 before being acquired by the Angels in March 2018. On September 5, 2023, Rengifo was named American League Player of the Week in which he batted .440 (11-for-25) with a 1.207 OPS, three home runs and seven RBI in the week.

After a one-year hiatus in Baltimore, Gary Sánchez returns to Milwaukee to serve as the backup catcher to William Contreras, a role similar to one he had with the 2024 Brewers. Sánchez signed with the Yankees as an International free agent in 2009, where enjoyed his finest seasons, hitting 33 home runs in 2017 and 34 in 2019. He finished second in the AL Rookie of the Year balloting in 2016. Playing in only 53 games with 229 plate appearances that season, the Dominican Republic-born receiver hit 20 home runs and compiled an OPS of 1.032. On August 23, 2019, Gary became the fastest catcher in Major League Baseball history to hit 100 home runs. Besides the Brewers, Yankees, and Orioles, Sánchez also played for the Mets, Padres and Twins.

Brice Turang established personal highs for himself in a plethora of categories last season, batting .288 (tying Sal Frelick for the best average on the team) hitting 18 home runs, driving in 91 runs and compiling a .794 OPS. He also collected a career-best 168 hits, 28 doubles, 18 infield hits and eight bunt singles. August was Turang's best month as he hit 10 home runs, drove in 24 runs, batted .342 and compiled a 1.093 OPS. After winning the Platinum Glove Award as the National League's best overall defender in 2024, Brice was a finalist for the Rawlings Gold Glove Award for NL second baseman in 2025. The Brewers' first-round selection in the 2019 draft was named the second baseman for Team USA in the 2026 World Baseball Classic.

Signed by the Brewers as an International free agent in July 2018, Abner Uribe made his Major League debut in 2023. Appearing in 32 games, Uribe compiled an ERA of 1.76 and a 1.174 WHIP. He struck out 39 batters in 30.2 innings. His 2023 season ended prematurely on July 18 when it was announced that he would be undergoing season-ending knee surgery. During the 2025 season, Uribe took the ball in a team-high 75 games and struck out 90 batters in 75-1/3 innings. He was lights-out as a setup man with 37 holds. Abner stepped into the closer's role when Trevor Megill was on the injured list, successfully converting seven save opportunities and another in the deciding game of the NL Division Series against the Cubs.

Following his acquisition from the Chicago White Sox, Andrew Vaughn joined the Brewers for a game against the Dodgers at American Family Field on July 7, 2025. In his first plate appearance, the newly-acquired Brewer belted a three-run first inning home run. That was only the beginning of an incredible half-season in Milwaukee. In his first 16 games with the Brewers, Andrew blasted five home runs and drove in 21 runs, while compiling a .365 batting average and a remarkable 1.157 OPS. Vaughn hit a three-run home run in the first inning of Game 2 of the NL Division Series against the Cubs and followed this up with a decisive solo home run in Game 5. Originally the number three overall selection by the Chicago White Sox in 2019, Vaughn made his Major League debut in 2021.

After sitting out the entire 2024 season and the first half of the 2025 campaign, Brandon Woodruff returned to action on July 6 at the Marlins, allowing only two hits and one earned run in six innings of work in his first starting assignment since September 23, 2023. Overall, "Woody" made 12 starts last season, winning seven of them, with his longest being on August 8 against the Mets when he allowed three hits and two earned runs in seven innings. Along with teammate Christian Yelich, he has been a member of all seven Brewers' playoff teams since 2018. The two-time All-Star (2019 and 2021) will always be remembered for a home run that he hit off future Hall of Famer Clayton Kershaw in Game 1 of the 2018 NL Championship Series.

Christian Yelich enjoyed a productive season in 2025 with 29 home runs, 103 RBI and a .793 OPS. His biggest hit was a walk-off grand slam against Boston on May 27. His best months for home runs were May and August, in which he hit seven home runs in each month. Acquired from the Miami Marlins following the 2017 season, Yelich, along with teammate Brandon Woodruff, has been a member of all seven of the Brewers' recent postseason teams. Christian won the NL batting titles in both 2018 and 2019 with marks of .326 and .329 respectively, hitting a career-high 44 home runs in 2019. Yelich compiled a 1.000 OPS in 2018 and 1.100 in 2019, winning the NL Most Valuable Player Award in 2018 and finishing runner-up for the award in 2019.

Originally a second-round selection by the Chicago Cubs in the 2013 draft, the Brewers signed Rob Zastryzny in December 2023. Appearing in a combined 35 games during the past two seasons with Milwaukee, he compiled a 2.12 ERA and a 1.045 WHIP. The Canadian-born Zastryzny had great success against left-handed batters in 2025, limiting them to a .196 batting average and .283 slugging percentage. He played his college ball with the Missouri Tigers and has seen Major League action with the Mets, Angels and Pirates in addition to the Brewers and Cubs, with whom he compiled a 1.13 ERA with the 2016 World Series winners. Rob was replaced on the World Series roster by Kyle Schwarber. The southpaw has also spent time in the Dodgers, Orioles and Marlins organizations.

Akil Baddoo signed with the Brewers as a free agent in December 2025. Originally a second-round selection by Minnesota in 2016, Baddoo was selected by the Detroit Tigers in the Rule 5 Draft in December 2020. He made his Major League debut on April 4, 2021, hitting a home run on the first pitch he saw from Cleveland's Aaron Civale, to become only the second player in Tigers history to homer on the first pitch. The following day, he hit his first career grand slam, becoming the first player in team history to hit a home run in his first two career games. A day later, Akil recorded his first career walk-off hit.

Tyler Black was selected in the second round of the 2021 draft, the No. 33 overall pick. Black made his Major League debut on April 30, 2024. In his first plate appearance, he collected his first big-league hit, a double to center off Tampa Bay's Tyler Alexander, a future Milwaukee Brewer. Tyler had two hits in four plate appearances in that game. Although he has appeared in only 23 Major League games, he has played four positions – designated hitter, first base, left field and right field. Over the course of five Minor League seasons, Black compiled an .841 OPS. He is the son of sports announcer Rod Black.

Coleman Crow was the Los Angeles Angels' 28th-round selection in the 2019 draft. He was traded to the New York Mets in 2023 for Eduardo Escobar. Crow underwent Tommy John surgery in 2023. The Brewers acquired him from the Mets on December 20, 2023 in exchange for pitcher Adrian Houser and outfielder Tyrone Taylor. Although Crow would miss all of the 2024 season, Milwaukee was intrigued by his upside potential in making the trade. In four Minor League seasons, Coleman has compiled a 19-7 record with 285 strikeouts in 264.1 innings.

2026 BREWERS MINOR LEAGUE PROSPECTS

The future of Brewers baseball is taking shape in the minor leagues. Four players on this page are ranked among the Top 100 prospects in Minor League Baseball

JESÚS MADE (RANKED 3RD)

At just 18 years old, Jesús Made has emerged as the most dynamic name in the Brewers' farm system. During a breakout 2025 campaign, he climbed three levels, hit .285 and stole 47 bases, showcasing both advanced contact skills and elite speed. His rapid ascent earned him an invitation to Major League Spring Training in 2026 and a consensus ranking as the No. 3 overall prospect on MLB Pipeline's Top 100 list. With mature plate discipline and five-tool potential, Made has quickly positioned himself as a foundational piece of Milwaukee's future infield.

LUIS PEÑA (RANKED 26TH)

Luis Peña continued his rapid progression through the Brewers' system in 2025, advancing aggressively through two full-season levels before his 19th birthday. His speed and energy stood out throughout the year, allowing him to impact games in multiple ways while competing against older talent.

That growth earned him a non-roster invitation to Major League Spring Training in 2026, a clear sign of the organization's belief in his trajectory. As he gains experience and continues to mature, Peña remains an athletic, up-the-middle prospect who could factor into Milwaukee's long-term infield plans in the years ahead.

2026 BREWERS MINOR LEAGUE PROSPECTS

JETT WILLIAMS (RANKED 51ST)

Jett Williams adds another versatile talent to the Brewers' prospect group entering 2026. Acquired in the offseason as part of the trade that sent Freddy Peralta and Tobias Myers to the Mets, the former first-round pick finished the 2025 season at Triple-A and could factor into Milwaukee's plans in the near future. Williams hit .281 with 10 home runs and 32 stolen bases in 2025, showing his ability to impact the game with both speed and on-base ability. Despite standing 5-foot-7, he generates surprising power and plays with an aggressive style. With experience at shortstop, second base and center field, Williams offers valuable versatility as he continues pushing toward a Major League opportunity.

COOPER PRATT (RANKED 64TH)

Cooper Pratt enters 2026 as one of the Brewers' top infield prospects, ranked No. 64 on MLB Pipeline's Top 100 list. In 2025 at Double-A Biloxi, he hit .238 with eight home runs, 62 RBIs and 31 stolen bases, showing a balanced mix of speed and emerging power. He also earned a non-roster invitation to Major League Spring Training in 2026, a sign of the organization's confidence in his development. Known for his strong defensive instincts and steady approach at the plate, Pratt continues to project as a potential everyday shortstop in Milwaukee.

KEON BROXTON WINS BREWERS' ALUMNI HOME RUN DERBY

BY DENNIS SELL

July 25, 2025 featured a memorable Milwaukee Brewers' alumni home run derby to commemorate the 25th season of American Family Field. The event followed a Friday afternoon contest against the Marlins. Although the Brewers dropped a 5-1 decision to the Marlins, the 41,944 fans saw Jackson Chourio extend his hitting streak to a career-high 18 games with his 17th home run of the season.

Most of the sellout crowd stayed for the contest. The 10 participating former players were divided into two teams, one captained by Ryan Braun and the other by Carlos Gómez. The rosters included:

- Team Braun – Eric Thames, Corey Hart, Bill Hall, Casey McGehee and Braun
- Team Gómez – Nyjer Morgan, Prince Fielder, Yovani Gallardo, Keon Broxton and Gómez

The derby consisted of two rounds. In the first round, each player had an opportunity to hit 20 pitches in a 90-second time frame with an eight-out elimination. Each home run was worth one run. In round two, the "golden baseball" round, home runs were worth two runs. The second round lasted 45 seconds or until three outs were recorded.

Former long-time third base coach Ed Sedar assumed the pitching duties with former Brewers catcher George Kottaras behind the plate. Former pitcher Tim Dillard, now a part of the Brewers' announcing crew, served as the home plate umpire. Former Brewers starting pitcher Randy Wolf and Shaun Wegner, head baseball coach at the University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee, were the outfield umpires.

After the first two rounds, Hart from Team Braun and Broxton from Team Gómez met in the final round. Each player had 60 seconds or 12 swings, with a home run counting for one run. Then the "golden baseball" round was worth two runs per home run, until three outs were recorded.

Broxton wound up winning, three runs to two.

The 35-year-old Broxton circled the bases after hitting the winning homer, and as he crossed the plate his teammates fell to the ground in a bowling ball-like celebration that was made famous following a Fielder walk-off home run against the Giants on Sunday, September 6, 2009.

For his win, Keon was awarded a trophy that stands 6-feet, 3-inches tall. "I love those moments when I'm the underdog. Just being here with these guys and being able to compete is such a blessing. I was coming in to win and have fun, but ultimately, I was just coming back to see the fans who showed me so much love," Broxton commented.

In addition to being remembered for winning the first alumni home run derby, Broxton will always be remembered for catching Anthony Rizzo's fly ball for the final out in right field in the Brewers' Game 163 victory over the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field on Monday, October 1, 2018. Other interesting tidbits from the contest:

- Even though Gallardo was a pitcher, his 12 home runs during his Major League career, with four coming in 2010, qualified him as a participant in the derby.
- Broxton had the distinction of hitting the longest home run, measured at 435.7 feet, just ahead of a 434.7 blast by Gómez.
- Manager Pat Murphy provided some laughs as he headed to the mound to pull Sedar in favor of bullpen coach Charlie Greene. "Murph and I had it set up because we thought it would be funny," Sedar said.

"For all of us to be able to again feel that electricity and intensity is so special," said Braun, who spent his entire 14-year career with the Brewers and is the team's all-time home run leader with 352. "It was an incredible experience for all of us. The ballpark was packed and the energy was incredible. It felt like it was a big deal to the community. I'd be happy to be part of it again."

The success of the event was described as a "walk-off grand slam" by the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel's Todd Rosiak. The real winners of the derby were the charities designated by each team. Autism United of Wisconsin, received a $10,000 check from Brewers Community Foundation for Team Gómez's win, while Habitat for Humanity was the beneficiary of $5,000 from Team Braun.

50 YEARS AGO ...

REMEMBERING HENRY AARON'S FINAL SEASON

BY DENNIS SELL

It hardly seems possible that 50 years have passed since Henry Aaron ended his Hall of Fame career with the Milwaukee Brewers in 1976. Aaron appeared in 85 games that season as the designated hitter, belting 10 home runs, five of which came during a nine-day period in June.

It wasn't noteworthy at the time, but Aaron reached a milestone when the Brewers hosted the California Angels on Tuesday night, July 20, 1976. The fact that Milwaukee was 35-49 and California at 39-54 was hardly a recipe for a rush to the ticket office. Before a County Stadium crowd of 10,134, the Brewers led, 2-1, entering the bottom of the seventh inning.

After Don Money drove in a run with a sacrifice fly, George "Boomer" Scott then clubbed a solo home run to left field. Aaron followed Scott to the plate. Facing the Angels' Dick Drago, Henry swung and the ball sailed over the left-field fence near the foul pole. Jerry Augustine was the eventual winning pitcher in Milwaukee's 6-2 victory.

Although no one knew it at the time, it would be Aaron's 755th and final home run. The video of that home run has been shown multiple times over the years. Aaron's second-to-last home run nine days earlier, however, was more dramatic and much more important to the team.

In the second game of a Sunday doubleheader in 94-degree weather on July 11, the Brewers trailed Texas by two runs entering the bottom of the ninth inning. Bernie Carbo and Robin Yount each delivered run-scoring singles to tie the game. With one out in the 10th inning, Aaron belted a Steve Foucault pitch deep into the left-field bleachers to give Milwaukee a thrilling 5-4 walk-off win.

The jubilant crowd of 28,149 refused to leave the ballpark, chanting, "We want Henry! We want Henry!" Nearly five minutes later, Aaron emerged from the locker room to salute the cheering throng. "Next to my pennant-winning home run in 1957," Aaron said, "today's homer was my biggest Milwaukee thrill."

MILWAUKEE
JEWISH FEDERATION

Today. Tomorrow. ALWAYS.
MILWAUKEEJEWISH.ORG

"Salute to Henry Aaron Night" took place on Friday, September 17 prior to a game against the Yankees that drew a crowd of 40,383. The format for the festivities was patterned after a 1950s television favorite, "This Is Your Life." Earl Gillespie, the "radio voice" of the Milwaukee Braves, was the master of ceremonies. The nearly 30 guests, all of whom played key roles in the nostalgic, sentimental scene, included:

- Aaron's parents, his wife Billye, and children
- Former teammates Eddie Mathews, Warren Spahn, Johnny Logan, Felix Mantilla, Bobby Thomson and Billy Bruton
- Former managers Charlie Grimm and Fred Haney
- Vic Raschi, the pitcher who gave up Henry's first home run on April 23, 1954
- Ed Scott, the scout who signed Hank in November 1951
- Jack Ford, representing his father, President Gerald Ford
- Baseball greats Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle. Both Aaron and Mays finished their careers in the cities where they first started–Mays (New York Giants to San Francisco back to New York in 1972-73 with the Mets) and Aaron (Milwaukee Braves to Atlanta back to Milwaukee with the Brewers in 1975-76.)

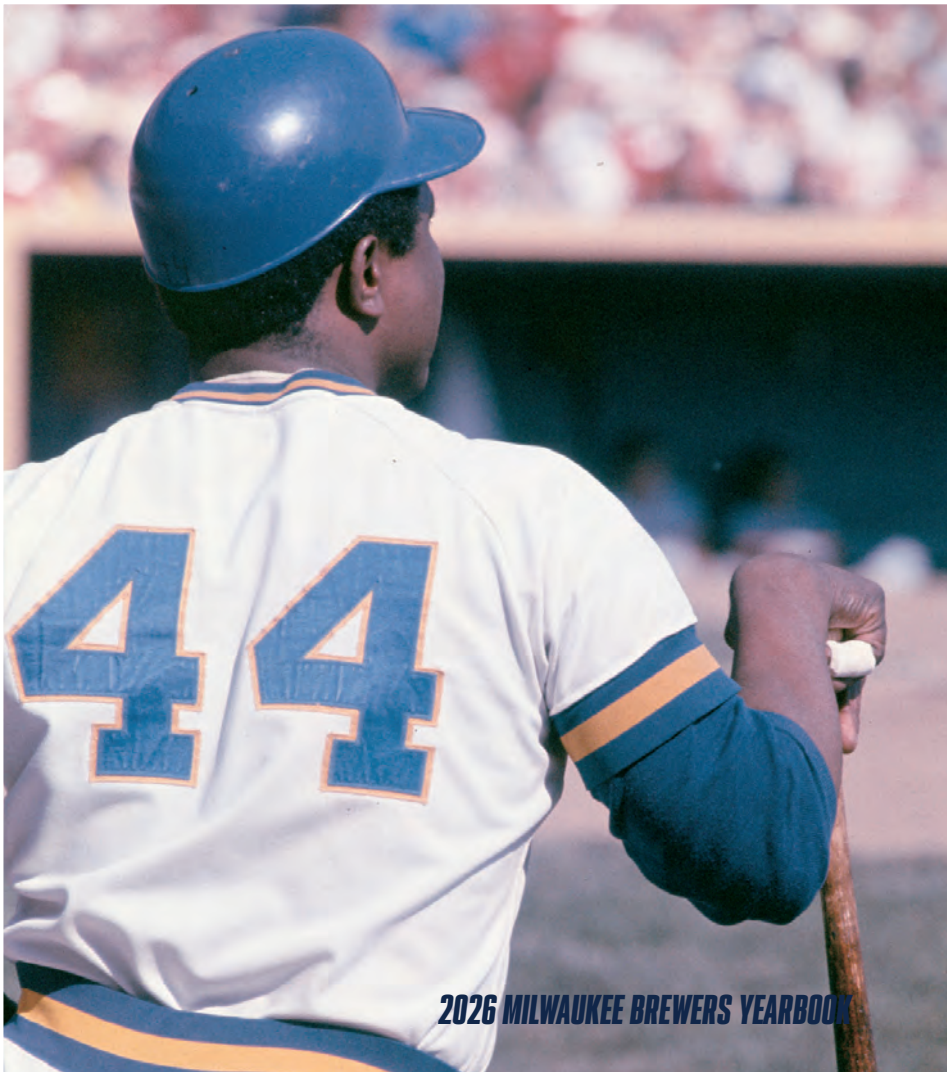
"Boomer" Scott did his best to secure a win on Aaron's special night, hitting a first-inning home run and delivering a two-run single in the sixth inning. Unfortunately, the Yankees tied the game with a run in the ninth before winning in the 11th inning.

In his season finale on Sunday, October 3, Aaron reached base safely on a run-scoring infield single in the sixth inning. Manager Alex Grammas sent in 23-year-old Jim Gantner to pinch run for Aaron. The crowd roared, knowing it was the end to one of the greatest careers in baseball history.

Gantner, who was just beginning his 17-year career with the Brewers, remembered, "The biggest honor I've ever had, something I'll never forget, is to be able to tell my grandkids that I was the pinch-runner for one of the greatest ballplayers ever."

Yount, who was completing his third big-league season, gave credit to the Home Run King years later. "Of all those with whom I played, Hank was the biggest influence on my career," said the two-time MVP. "The way Hank played the game, carried himself on and off the field, and remained humble, made the greatest impact on me as a young player."

(Editor's Note–I was a 26-year-old fan in 1976, attending some 60 of the Brewers' home games. At the time, I don't believe that I really appreciated what I was witnessing. Now, as a 76-year-old, I treasure the memory of watching Henry Aaron during his final Major League season, being present for his final two home runs, special night, and final game).



Treat your team to a night they deserve! Whether it be in our dining room or a large party in our private dining rooms, we'll make it a night to remember!

2026 HOME SCHEDULE HIGHLIGHTS

The earliest home opener in Milwaukee baseball history along with holiday appearances by the rival Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals highlight the Milwaukee Brewers 2026 home schedule. The March 26 date of the 2026 home opener is earlier by two days than the previous mark of March 28, 2019. The Brewers host the Cardinals on Memorial Day, also "Dollar Dog Day," and the Cubs on Labor Day.

The home schedule features other highlights. The rival Cubs, whom the Brewers defeated last season in the NL Division Series, make a weekend appearance June 26-28. The Brewers host Aaron Judge and the Yankees during the May 8-10 weekend. The defending World Series champion Dodgers invade American Family Field the weekend of May 22-24. The American League champion Toronto Blue Jays come to Milwaukee for a mid-week series on April 14-16. Freddy Peralta, fan favorite during his years with the Brewers, makes his return to Milwaukee with his New York Mets for a three-game mid-week series on July 20-22.

The Brewers travel to Williamsport, Pennsylvania on Sunday, August 21 to face the Atlanta Braves in the MLB Little League Classic. June and August feature the most home games with 15 in each month. September has the least amount of home games with nine. The longest homestand is nine games from July 17-26.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE BEYOND THE DIAMOND

The Community Relations Department of the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club is proud to create a meaningful impact throughout Wisconsin. With the support of our players, coaches, alumni, and staff, we partner with charities, schools, youth programs, and nonprofits to raise hundreds of thousands of dollars each year. Together, we champion causes that strengthen Greater Milwaukee and communities across the state enhancing lives, inspiring hope, and building a brighter future.

Players and coaches joined students to build 60 bookshelves, inspiring summer reading and promoting lifelong literacy.

COMMUNITY INITIATIVES

KINDNESS IN MKE Players, coaches, and staff spread kindness across Wisconsin, surprising the community with random acts of generosity totaling over $50,000 in a single day.

HOMETOWN CHAMPIONS Showing appreciation to our Hometown Champions for their service and sacrifices they make in keeping communities safe.

JR. SUPERFAN SPOTLIGHT Recognizing our youngest fans who proudly show their Brewers pride and love for the Crew.

GRAND SLAM TEACHER OF THE MONTH Honoring Wisconsin's most outstanding educators for their dedication in the classroom

YOUTH CLINICS Over 1,000 young athletes sharpened their baseball and softball skills at Brewers-hosted clinics.

BREWERS SHOWCASE Celebrating students' creative entries that honor the legacy and global impact of leaders and sports figures.

MEET THE BROADCAST TEAM

TELEVISION

BRIAN ANDERSON

Years with the Brewers:
20th

Most memorable call in 2025:
Jeff Levering's call that the Brewers had won the 2025 NLDS.

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
Bill Schroeder

Coffee order on game day
No coffee, only Green Tea

Favorite ballpark food
A brat and a beer (of course). Both qualify as food items

Favorite local restaurant
Calderone Club

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
Wishing I was a sports broadcaster.

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
I moved to Milwaukee in 2007. The city grabbed me by surprise. I was not sure I'd survive the first winter but we did and quickly realized the vibes were immaculate. Great golf, great music, a small town feel in a big city. I love working for the Brewers. I love the passion of Wisconsin sports fans.

BILL SCHROEDER

Years with the Brewers:
32 years in the TV booth

Most memorable call in 2025
Great moment last year The Miz debut. Electric night on the field and in the stands.

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
Tim Dillard, great sense of humor

Coffee order on game day
Nonfat Latte.

Favorite ballpark food
Pulled pork sandwich.

Favorite local restaurant:
Calderone Club

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
Been so long. Not sure what I would be doing

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
Milwaukee has been home since 1984. Love the city and the people. Not a better place to live and raise a family.

SOPHIA MINNAERT

Years with the Brewers
Starting 14th season

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
Rock because he's like our booth dad

Coffee order on game day
Iced vanilla latte

Favorite ballpark food
Popcorn

Favorite local restaurant
Mo's and Buckley's

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
Likely a career in communications or travel

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
I love Milwaukee because of my connections to Marquette, the passion for local teams and being close to family and friends.

TIM DILLARD

Years with the Brewers
I was first drafted by the Brewers in 2001 as a senior in high school... kind of been with them ever since.

Most memorable call in 2025
They all run together. A skill I acquired all too well as a player was how to wake each day with a blankish memory.

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
Jeff Levering. He's clicking on every level the broadcast has to offer and is never not locked in.

Coffee order on game day
Black coffee. All day. Every day.

Favorite ballpark food
Arepas

Favorite local restaurant
Kopp's. I'm there once a week at least

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
I'd be exceptionally unemployed. Maybe something in acting or drive for Uber (if my car meets requirements)

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
Milwaukee means community. I've been in its mix since 2001, It's a unique gem of a city!

VINNY ROTTINO

Years with the Brewers :
2003-2009 as a player, 2021 - present as broadcaster

Most memorable call in 2025:
Isaac Collins walk-off on August 10th

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
"Rock" Bill Schroeder.

Coffee order on game day:
I have at least 4 cups of black coffee lined up. Thinking of Gatorade bucket of coffee for 2026 season.

Favorite ballpark food:
Cheese curds.

Favorite local restaurant:
Calderone Club. Gino makes the best Italian cuisine in Milwaukee.

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
I would be a baseball scout. After I was done playing, I was a pro scout for the Texas Rangers from 2017-2020. My friends with the Rangers used my reports and recommendations and won the World Series in 2023. It was like leaving behind the answer key to a test.

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
It's home. I love this city and state.

STEPHEN WATSON

Years with the Brewers
5th season with the broadcast team (12th season covering the team)

Most memorable call in 2025
Being a part of the emotional broadcast when we celebrated the life of Bob Uecker at American Family Field.

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
Rock, no question.

Coffee order on game day
I'm simple–black coffee or a cold brew on a hot summer day.

Favorite ballpark food
Brats over hot dogs, always.

Favorite local restaurant
Birch

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
Something in the music business, live music is something that has always filled me up.

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
Where to begin. Once upon a time I moved here thinking I would be here for a two-year TV contract, and I've been here for over 11 years. It's become home–a place I met my wife and started my family.

CRAIG COSHUN

Years with the Brewers
This is my 26th year with the Crew. Bill Schroeder and I hosted the very first telecast when the ballpark opened in 2001.

Most memorable call in 2025:
On July 6 in Miami, I hosted the pre/post shows for Brandon Woodruff's first start back after nearly two years. He pitched a gem and it was great to talk about his comeback.

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
I've worked with Rock the longest and he intentionally tried (successfully) to make me laugh during our shows that I couldn't even talk to send it to break, he had to send it to break!

Favorite ballpark food:
Good 'ole brat at the ballpark. Gotta garnish with kraut and secret stadium sauce!

Favorite restaurant:
Ward's House of Prime.

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
I've been in sports broadcasting my entire life, 40th year overall, but if I wasn't doing that I'd have been a teacher.

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
Milwaukee means everything to me, I have met a countless number of people and developed some very special relationships.

MEET THE BROADCAST TEAM

JEFF LEVERING

Years with the Brewers:
12th season

Most memorable call in 2025:
Blake Perkins walk-off throw home against the Mets, Isaac Collins walk-off home run against the Mets AND The Brewers beating the Cubs in Game 5 of the Division Series

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
Kent Sommerfeld

Coffee order on game day:
LARGE Latte

Favorite ballpark food:
Peanuts and cheese curds

Favorite local restaurant:
Calderone Club and Thai-namite

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
Teaching and/or coaching

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
Milwaukee means the world to me. The people are authentic and truly are a community. I sincerely hope I have given to the people of this great city/state as much as they have given me.

RADIO

LANE GRINDLE

Years with the Brewers:
2026 will be my 11th season with the Brewers

Most memorable call in 2025
Vaughn's blasts against the Cubs in the regular season and in Game 5. The Turang HR in Game 5.

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
Maurer most likely to dead pan and incredibly honest observation that will make us laugh for minutes.

Coffee order on game day
Mostly just a dark roast, black.

Favorite ballpark food
Brat or Pizza

Favorite local restaurant
Carnevor

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
Farming. My dad, and I am biased, was the best farmer I had ever seen growing up. His work ethic, honesty and integrity were an inspiration.

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
It's home. The city is so passionate about the Brewers, about baseball. How can you not fall in love with this place? Summers are undefeated in Milwaukee.

JOSH MAURER

Years with the Brewers:
This will be my 5th year with the team (my redshirt senior season).

Most memorable call in 2025
Andruw Monasterio's go-ahead three-run blast in the 11th mid-August in Cincinnati that led the Crew to their 14th straight win.

Who's most likely to make you laugh in the booth?
We've part-time comedians in our radio crew! Lorraine Gill, our long-time food liaison who delivers lunch and dinner in addition to some of the funniest moments at the ballpark.

Coffee order on game day
Guess what, I try to never drink coffee!

Favorite ballpark food
There is only one acceptable answer, all-beef hot dog!

Favorite local restaurant
Tenutas in Bay View. Incredible traditional Italian food.

If you weren't in broadcasting, what would you be doing?
I can't imagine my life without working around games. Working in a pizza kitchen, tossing dough and throwing it in the oven...doesn't that sound fun?!

What does Milwaukee mean to you?
I had never even visited the city before I was hired by the Brewers. I can't imagine a better place to call baseball games!

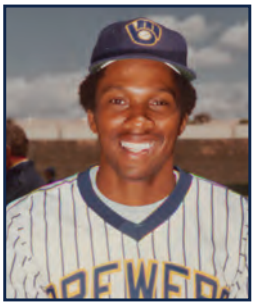
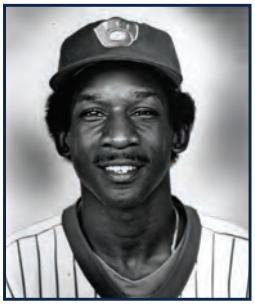
IN MEMORIAM

Tommie Reynolds enjoyed an eight-year Major League career, spending his final season as a member of the 1972 Milwaukee Brewers, where he batted .200 in 72 games. In a July 28, 1972 contest against the eventual AL East champion Detroit Tigers, Reynolds delivered a walk-off single in Milwaukee's 3-2 win. As a member of the Class-A Burlington Bees in 1973, he led the league in batting with a .332 average and tied for the lead in RBI with 88, while his 27 home runs left him one short of completing the Triple Crown. That season earned Tommie a trip to the majors with the Kansas City Athletics in 1963. The outfielder would later play for the Mets and Angels before his one season in Milwaukee. Reynolds later became a coach on Tony La Russa's staff in both Oakland and St. Louis. He passed away on March 19, 2025, at the age of 83.



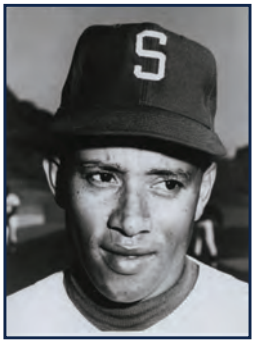
Marshall Edwards will always be remembered in Brewers' lore for "The Catch." The scene was the fifth and deciding game of the 1982 AL Championship Series. After Cecil Cooper's two-run seventh inning single had given the Brewers a 4-3 lead, manager Harvey Kuenn inserted Edwards as a defensive replacement for Gorman Thomas, who was nursing a twisted knee. With one out in the eighth inning, the Angels' Don Baylor hit a shot to centerfield. Nicknamed "Flea" for his 5-foot, 9-inch, 157-pound frame, Edwards ran back and collided with the wall as he plucked the ball out of the air. Appearing in 160 games during parts of three seasons in the majors, all with the Brewers, Edwards batted a career-high .297 in 1983. Edwards went on to become a minister at World Changes International Church. He was 72 when he died on April 15, 2025.



Vic Harris played the final season of his eight-year Major League career with the Milwaukee Brewers in 1980. Although Harris appeared in only 53 games, he went out in a blaze of glory by delivering a two-out walk-off single in the 15th inning to give the Brewers a 5-4 win over the Oakland Athletics in the season finale on October 5. While he batted .213, his on-base percentage was nearly 100 points higher at .304, as evidence of his ability to draw walks. Drafted by Oakland in the first round of the secondary phase of the 1970 draft, the switch-hitting Harris broke in with the Texas Rangers in 1972. He played six positions during his career, all three outfield slots as well as second base, third base and shortstop. In addition to the Brewers and Rangers, Harris also played with the Cubs, Giants and Cardinals. Following his Major League career, he played two seasons in Japan and finished his professional career with the Triple-A Louisville Redbirds before retiring. He passed away on April 26, 2025 at the age of 75.

Rich Rollins, selected by the 1969 expansion Seattle Pilots, was an original member of the Milwaukee Brewers in their first game on April 7, 1970. His time in Milwaukee was short as he was released a month later. He signed with Cleveland where he finished his career. Rollins began his 10-year career with the 1961 Twins in the team's first season in Minnesota. He was a starter on the American League All-Star team in 1962. The infielder led the league with 10 triples in 1964 and was a member of the AL champion Twins in 1965. In 1966, he joined teammates Harmon Killebrew, Don Mincher, Tony Oliva and Zoilo Versalles as the first quintet to hit home runs in the same inning. Rich was 87 when he died on May 13, 2025.

Jason Conti appeared in 22 games with the Brewers during the 2003 season. The outfielder had his most memorable game at St. Louis on the evening of September 17 as his first-inning sacrifice fly gave Milwaukee a 1-0 lead. Trailing the Cardinals, 5-1, in the fifth inning, Conti blasted a three-run home run to pull the Brewers to within a run. After St. Louis scored again to take a two-run lead, pinch-hitter Brooks Kieschnick belted a two-run ninth inning homer to tie the game. Later that inning, Conti drove in Scott Podsednik with the winning run, his fifth RBI of the contest. A 32nd round draft choice in 1996 by Arizona, Conti also played for Tampa Bay and Texas. His professional career lasted 15 seasons, 10 in the minors and five in the Major Leagues. In 182 big-league games, he compiled a .238 batting average and a .658 OPS. Jason died after suffering a brain injury on May 17, 2025, at the age of 50.



Diego Segui holds a unique distinction in baseball history as the only player to appear for both original Seattle franchises – the Pilots in 1969 and the Mariners in 1977 – during their inaugural seasons. The Cuban-born Segui also played for the Athletics in both Kansas City and Oakland, the Washington Senators, Cardinals and Red Sox. Both a starter and reliever, Segui appeared in 66 games with the 1969 Pilots, winning 12 games and saving 12 others. As a member of the 1970 Athletics, Segui led the American League with a 2.56 ERA. He notched a career-high 17 saves with St. Louis in 1973 and appeared in the 1975 World Series with Boston. When he started the Mariners' opener in 1977, the 39-year-old was bestowed with the nickname, "The Ancient Mariner." He later became a Minor League pitching coach. His son, David Segui, also enjoyed a 15-year Major League career. Diego died on June 24, 2025, at the age of 87 in Kansas City.

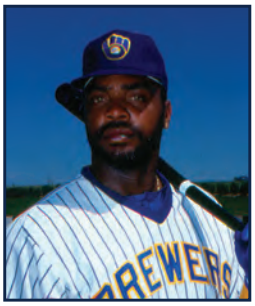
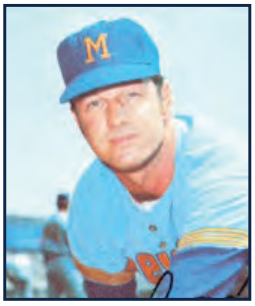
IN MEMORIAM



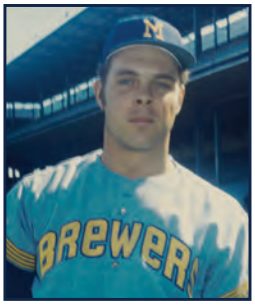
Dave Parker, a member of the National Baseball Hall of Fame, spent the 1990 season with the Brewers as the team's designated hitter. He batted .289 with 30 doubles, 21 home runs and 92 RBI that season and was selected as a reserve for the All-Star Game. Parker spent the first 11 seasons of his 19-year career with Pittsburgh where he had his best seasons – 1978 NL Most Valuable Player Award, two NL batting titles (1977-78), three-time NL Gold Glove Award (1977-79), while being a key contributor to the 1979 World Champion Pirates.

Nicknamed "The Cobra" due to the power and sting of his bat, Parker became a free agent following the 1983 season and signed with the hometown Cincinnati Reds. In 1985, he batted .312, hit 34 home runs and led the league with 125 RBI, 42 doubles, 80 extra-base hits and 350 total bases while winning the first Home Run Derby title at the All-Star Game. He then moved on to Oakland, where he was a member of the 1989 World Series champions, and ended his career with California and Toronto in 1991. Parker was also known for his fielding prowess, winning three Gold Glove Awards. He finished his career with 2,712 hits, 339 home runs and a .290 lifetime batting average. Parker passed away at the age of 74 on June 27, 2025, following a long battle with Parkinson's disease.



John Morris was an original Milwaukee Brewer who pitched in the team's first Milwaukee game on April 7, 1970, when he allowed an unearned run in two innings of work. The southpaw appeared in 69 games for the Brewers in 1970 and 1971, posting a 7-5 record with a 3.85 ERA. His two best performances took place in May 1970. Backed by Ted Savage's three-run homer, Morris defeated the Yankees, 3-1, on May 13. Six days later, he beat the Oakland A's and Catfish Hunter by a 6-3 score. The Brewers traded the left-hander to the Giants in October 1971. Originally signed by Philadelphia in 1960, Morris also played for the Orioles, Giants and 1969 Seattle Pilots during his eight-year Major League career. Morris faced Mickey Mantle three times during his career, retiring the Yankees' Hall of Famer all three times. He passed away in Scottsdale, Arizona, on October 15, 2025 at the age of 84.

Bernie Smith was originally signed by the expansion New York Mets, spending the first eight years of his professional career in their Minor League system from 1962-69. Acquired by the Seattle Pilots in December 1969, Smith made his Major League debut with the Milwaukee Brewers on July 31, 1970. Two weeks later, on August 12, he highlighted a four-run eighth inning rally with a pinch-hit, two-run, go-ahead double as the Brewers defeated the Detroit Tigers, 6-5, at County Stadium. In a game at Cleveland on August 25, Bernie, whose full name was Calvin Bernard Smith, broke a 2-2 tie with his first Major League home run, a two-run shot in the 10th inning. He played all three outfield positions during the 1970 and 1971 campaigns. His final season with the Brewers was in 1971. Smith managed the Brewers' Class-A affiliate in Danville, Illinois in 1973, posting a 66-57 mark and winning the Manager of the Year award. Often referred to as "Bernie Brewer" by radio announcer Merle Harmon, Smith died on October 18, 2025 at the age of 84.



Andy Kosco was acquired by the Brewers from the Dodgers in February 1971 for pitcher Al Downing, who would achieve a measure of notoriety three years later when the southpaw surrendered Hank Aaron's 715th home run. Kosco, meanwhile, got off to a roaring start for the 1971 Brewers, collecting a double, home run and driving in four runs in the team's Opening Day 7-2 victory at Minnesota. Kosco played four positions (first base, third base, left field and right field), hitting 10 home runs and driving in 39 runs for the '71 Brewers, compiling a .227 batting average and .669 OPS. Following the '71 campaign, Kosco was traded to the Angels in exchange for Tommie Reynolds. He then played for Boston and Cincinnati where he concluded his 10-year Major League career in 1974. An outstanding high school athlete, Kosco received 44 football scholarship offers, including Michigan State and Ohio State, and 27 basketball scholarships, but instead signed with the Tigers in 1959. He began his big-league career with the 1965 AL pennant-winning Minnesota Twins. Kosco played for the Yankees in 1968, where on September 28, he replaced Mickey Mantle at first base in the future Hall of Famer's final Major League game. Kosco hit a career-best 19 home runs for the 1969 Dodgers. He passed away on December 19, 2025 at the age of 84. His sons, Bryn and Dru, both played Minor League baseball.

Joe Nossek was Del Crandall's right-hand man and third base coach during Crandall's tenure as Brewers manager from 1973-75. Nossek's first season as a coach was the most memorable. Following three sub-.500 seasons during their first three years in Milwaukee, the 1973 team thrilled the city by winning 15 of 16 games in June, occupying first place for five days that month. After leaving Milwaukee, Nossek coached for 25 more years with Minnesota, Cleveland, Kansas City and the Chicago White Sox. Before his coaching days, Nossek had a six-year playing career with the Twins, Athletics and Cardinals from 1964-70. Though Nossek was a utility outfielder, he started five of the seven games in the 1965 World Series for the Twins, collecting four hits. One of his teammates on the Kansas City Athletics in 1966 and 1967 was a rookie, Rick Monday, who went on to record a storied Major League career. During a visit to American Family Field in 2024, Monday credited Nossek for teaching him how to play the outfield. Joe passed away on February 12, 2026 at the age of 85.
